

ORANGEMEN GATHER TO MAKE PROTESTS

OPPONENTS TO HOME RULE MET IN BELFAST TO SIGN LEAGUE AND COVENANT.

ULSTER DAY IS QUIET

Religious Services Marked Opening of The Ceremony Which May Mean An Armed Outbreak.

Belfast, Ireland, Sept. 28.—Ulster Day, the Orangemen's culminating day of protest against Home Rule, opened with calmness that rendered unionists and home rulers alike apprehensive as to what might happen. The people of Ireland, even those responsible for today's signature of the formidable "league and covenant," had looked forward to the day's happening with misgivings.

The town was gayly decorated, the Union Jacks being everywhere predominant, one huge national flag enveloping the facade of Ulster Hall, the center of the proceedings. Most of the shops and all the big industrial works were closed so that every man desiring to do so might participate in the manifestation.

The spirit of unity prevailing among the protestant denominations was illustrated by the selection of the officiating clergyman, Rev. W. McLean, formerly Presbyterian minister, who was assisted in the service by ministers belonging to the Anglican, Methodist, Baptist and Congregational churches. Sir Edward Carson sat at the right of Mr. McLean and the Lord Mayor of Belfast, at his left. A semi-military aspect was not lacking in the meeting as 200 stalwart members of the Unionist clubs and Orange lodges wearing bright sashes acted as a guard of honor around the pulpit, while 500 of what is known as the "reserve guard" occupied seats in the gallery.

The great congregation was unable to restrain itself as notable personages came into the hall. Among the first was Lord Charles Beresford who was greeted with a loud cheer. Captain James Craig the unionist member for East Down reminded the audience that the service was a religious one and said Sir Edward Carson wished it to be looked upon as such in the real sense of the word.

When Sir Edward Carson and Frederick E. Smith arrived, however, the people forgotful of the appeals which had been made again broke into cheer which continued as the two leaders proceeded to the platform behind the Orange flag of the battle of the Boyne presented to Sir Edward Carson in such a dramatic manner last evening.

The service opened with the hymn "Our God Our Help In Ages Past" after which a short prayer was offered and an appeal made to the Almighty to "Stretch Forth Thy Arms and Help us in this Time of National Danger." The first lesson was taken from Isaiah 26:1-3. "We have a strong city," Mr. McLean's sermon burst the congregational to another round of cheering which was suppressed from the pulpit.

Mr. McLean declared the Irish question at bottom was a war against protestantism and an attempt to establish Roman Catholic ascendancy in Ireland and to begin the disintegration of the British empire by placing a second parliament in Dublin. Ulster men were ready, he said to accept almost any program of social and political reform but they would not have home rule. The service concluded with the singing of the national anthem.

Sir Edward Carson, today wrote his name as the first to sign the solemn covenant of the Ulster men which binds them "to use all the means that may be found necessary to defeat the present conspiracy to set up home rule in Ireland," and also to refuse to recognize the authority of an Irish parliament.

He was followed by many men who have become noted leaders in the campaign against home rule and there were succeeded by thousands of the rank and file of the orangemen and unionists in the other provinces of Ireland.

AK-SAR-BEN FESTIVITIES BEGIN AT OMAHA MONDAY.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 28.—Omaha is dressed in her gayest attire in readiness for the beginning of the Ak-Sar-Ben festivities, which will continue through the coming week. The program this year is the most elaborate ever prepared for the annual carnival in this city. Beginning Monday and continuing until Saturday there will be a succession of parades and pageants. The big features of the week will be the automobile floral parade, the electrical parade, the battle of roses and the coronation ball. Thousands of visitors are already in the city.

GEORGIA SITUATION IS YET VERY ACUTE

ARE REPORTS TODAY

Troops in Augusta Have Hard Time Quelling the Disturbance Last Night.

Augusta, Ga., Sept. 28.—The Georgian Hussars, a cavalry troops of Savannah, was today ordered to Augusta on riot duty and left for that city this afternoon on a special train. Martial law ruled in Augusta today as a result of last night's disorder in which two citizens were killed and two wounded by state militiamen guarding property of the local street railway company whose employees are on strike, objecting to certain rules of the company regarding a union.

Five companies of guardsmen arrived from Vaneboro early today and were placed on duty around the railway power plant. It is in this territory that a "dead line" was established by militia last night and in which the shooting occurred.

Col. W. L. O'Leary of the state guard arrived from Savannah. Acting with Adjutant General William C. O'Leary he assumed charge of the situation. The dispatch of these officers and additional guardsmen was ordered by Gov. Brown late last night, after he was notified that the situation here was critical. He issued a proclamation declaring the city to be in a state of insurrection and ordering martial law.

Alfred Dorn and Robert Christie, who were killed, and Ben F. Baker, who was wounded, are Augusta business men. Christie was driving an automobile and the other two were in a carriage when they crossed the "dead line" near the power house. It is said that they were in ignorance of the order against traffic in the territory. Baker and Dorn whipped up their horse when a guard ordered them to stop. It is not known whether Christie heard the command. Not until the early hours of the day was quiet restored.

MAKES A DESPERATE EFFORT AT SUICIDE

Oshkosh Woman Tries to Cut Throat And Then Cuts Wrists With Pen Knife—May Recover.

Oshkosh, Wis., Sept. 28.—Mrs. F. W. Higgins, wife of a well known candy merchant made two attempts to kill herself this morning at her home on Main street. First she slashed her throat with a razor and when her husband was telephoning for a doctor she cut her wrists with a pen knife. She was taken to St. Mary's hospital where a strong effort is being made for her recovery. She never intimated she wanted to take her life, but she has been despondent for several days and yesterday, conceived the fear she was losing her mind. Her husband believes the fear of being put in an asylum caused her to commit the act.

BALKAN SITUATION CONTINUES UNEASY

Warlike Feeling Prevails in Serbian Capital Despite Assurances of Peace—Hold Ammunition.

Belgrade, Serbia, Sept. 28.—The warlike feeling continues to prevail throughout the capital despite repeated official assurances that peace will be maintained in the Balkans. At the war office the gravest activity is displayed and civilians are not allowed to enter the building. The Serbian authorities have detained eighteen carloads of ammunition which has arrived here on the way to Turkey.

QUALITY OF TOBACCO BEST IN SIX YEARS

W. C. Carrier of Edgerton, Premier Buyer, Authority—Sixty Per Cent of Crop Has Been Sold.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Sept. 28.—The quality of the tobacco crop in this state is the best since 1906, according to W. C. Carrier of Edgerton, one of the leading tobacco buyers in the state. Carrier claims that more tobacco was grown this year than in many years previous. He estimates that 60 per cent of the crop has already been sold.

"Wisconsin has the finest tobacco crop it has raised since 1906," said Mr. Carrier today. "The acreage in Wisconsin is greater and the quality of the crop is of a superior class. There will be three cases of binder tobacco to one case last year. I have traveled over the tobacco territory in the past two months, and I estimate that already 60 per cent of the crop has been sold at prices ranging from 10 to 15 cents. It is conservatively estimated that at least 25 per cent of the crop is still standing in the fields. It is expected that most of this will be harvested by tonight. Sampling of the 1911 crop has commenced in a moderate way, but will not be in full blast for two weeks yet."

DISCUSSES POLITICS IN SPEECHES TODAY

President Taft Breaks Usual Rule of Silence on Such Matters in His Addresses Today.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 28.—President Taft has decided to break his rule of silence in public addresses on political subjects late today when he speaks before the republican clubs of Essex county from the steps of Paramatta, his summer home. The president played golf this morning with John Hay and Hammond and planned to motor to Gloucester with Hammond for luncheon. Sir George Reid, high commissioner of Australia at London was the only other guest invited to luncheon.

Wilson Encouraged. New York, Sept. 28.—Gov. Wilson declared today he felt greatly encouraged by his reception in New England in the last few days.

He was especially impressed, he said, "by the fact that everywhere great crowds with whom I come in contact and the people whom I met personally seemed to take it for granted that the democratic ticket would be elected."

GENERAL STRIKE IS URGED IN LAWRENCE

General Council of Industrial Workers Make Recommendation at Meeting This Afternoon.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Lawrence, Sept. 28.—A strike of all of the members of the industrial workers of the world employed in the textile mills of this city Monday was advocated by the Lawrence general council of the organization this afternoon. The recommendation was laid before a mass meeting at three. The general strike movement was sanctioned by Vincent St. John, general secretary of the industrial workers who sent a telegram to that effect from the headquarters in Chicago.

Promises of support of a country wide strike, if one is called, were contained in numerous telegrams received by William Yates of the industrial workers of the world. William E. Trautmann, who was prominent in the local strike last winter, sent a message from Pittsburgh reading: "Thousands of miners and steel workers will be inspired for a general strike for the liberty of Ettore and Giovanni."

SAYS OIL COMPANY VIOLATES DECREES

Spirit and Letter of Dissolution Order Being Violated is Charge Filed Today.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

SENATE COMMITTEE FOR INTERVENTION IN MEXICAN STRIFE

Investigating Board Ends Work at Los Angeles and is Said to Favor American Intervention.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 28.—The United States senate sub-committee appointed to investigate relations with Mexico completed its work in this city yesterday and while its members are non-committal it is said the report which will be submitted to the committee on foreign relations will hold that the evidence points to the necessity for the United States to intervene in Mexico in order that American and American interests may receive proper protection. Speaking of the testimony Senator William Alden Smith, chairman of the sub-committee said:

"The testimony of every Mexican whom I questioned agreed upon this point; that it arms, ammunition and supplies needed in warfare were permitted to enter the country during the Orozco rebellion the same as they were during the Madero revolution Orozco would have been in Mexico City long ago. The rigid enforcement of the law against the admission into Mexico of arms and ammunition has been Orozco's greatest handicap."

It is said the evidence proves that no American money was used in financing the Orozco rebellion, but tends to establish the claim that American funds were used in financing the Madero revolution.

Americans Give Aid. Washington, Sept. 28.—Various charges of American financial aid to both Mexican revolutions have been made in congress. Representatives here of the Orozcoists have been alleging the Madero government overthrew Diaz with American aid and that Madero representatives have charged that the present revolution has been financed by Americans who have large interests in Sonora and Chihuahua.

Names of prominent men have been mentioned. The Madero government's latest action in twice sending troops through United States territory to operate against the rebels in Mexico and northern states is believed to be satisfactory to this government and it is generally thought here among public men that intervention will be a step of last resort.

COMPLETING SOUTH WING NEW CAPITOL

Expected to Be Ready for Occupancy by First of January—State Senate to Be Housed There.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Sept. 28.—The work on the south wing of the capitol is being rushed rapidly to completion. The marble sidings are now being placed in position, and plastering has been started. Lew F. Porter, secretary of the capitol building commission anticipates that the wing will be ready for occupancy by the first week in January when the next session of the legislature opens. The senate will be housed in this wing. Many of the rooms used for committees of the last session are now utilized by different branches of the state government, and the completion of the wing seems almost necessary before the next session of the legislature convenes. It will still be another year before the dome will be completed. Marble is now being placed in position at the sides of the dome, but as each block must be hoisted 200 feet in the air with a derrick the work moves in a snail-like fashion.

WIDOW USES POWDER BUT GETS PENSION

Attendance at "Nickel Shows" Did Not Prevent Her From Allowance Says St. Louis Judge.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 28.—Attending motion picture shows and using face powder is no reason why a widow with eight children should not have a widow's pension, decided Judge E. E. Porterfield of the county court here today. Mrs. John Jacobs whose husband died and left her with eight children recently applied to the court for an allowance under the Missouri widows' pension law. Protest was made by neighbors that Mrs. Jacobs frequented "nickel shows" and that "she applied powder to her face."

"If anyone has a right to go to picture shows for recreation I should say it was the widowed mother of eight children," said Judge Porterfield as he ordered $15 a month paid to the woman. The judge said the powder using charge was trivial.

ELECT NEW YORK BANKER ST. PAUL ROAD DIRECTOR.

CONVICT CHURCHMEN IN KIDNAPPING CASE

Catholic Priest and Sisters of Church School Lose Case Against Them at Tacoma, Wash.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 28.—A suit against prominent church men and Sisters of the Academy of Visitation, in which Mrs. Lizzie Magnusson asked $40,000 damages for the alleged kidnapping and alienation of the affections of her daughter, Marjorie Riegan, was brought to a close late last night when the jury awarded Mrs. Magnusson damages in the sum of $25,000.

The charges were against Bishop F. J. O'Dea of the Nisqually Diocese, Father Van Goethem, Mother Camillus and Sister Alonius of the Academy of Visitation and Louis R. LeFebvre, an attorney. Marjorie Riegan, aged seventeen, disappeared in February, 1911, following her removal from the academy by her mother who intended to take her to Alaska. Evidence was produced to show the girl had gone to the home of Father Goethem and he had concealed her.

Father Goethem testified he had kept her whereabouts secret because she told him her mother would place her in an improper environment in Alaska. Counsel for the defense said an appeal would be taken as the verdict placed a stigma on persons devoting themselves to holy work that must be removed.

NICARAGUAN TROUBLE IS NOT YET ENDED

Calls for Help to Women and Children in Leon Indicate That Situation is Dangerous.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, Sept. 28.—Calls for help from women and children still detained in Leon as part of the policy of the liberals indicate that the revolution in Nicaragua has not been put down with the surrender of Mena and his forces at Granada. Minister Welzel in reporting the situation at Leon, says in a dispatch to the state department that relief has been extended to a few Americans and other foreigners. The methods of warfare employed by Gen. Mena and the Zalayistas is indicated in Minister Welzel's statement that during the bombardment of Managua 132 women and children were struck by projectiles, while not one man was injured.

The Nicaraguan rebel leader, Gen. Mena who surrendered to the American naval force at Granada several days ago is now on his way to Panama. Rear Admiral Sutherland cabled the navy department today that Mena, very ill, his son late chief of police of Managua and a body servant were placed aboard the American cruiser Cleveland at Corinto and sailed for Panama at 5:30 this morning. They are due to arrive on the isthmus next Tuesday.

ALSACE-LORRAINE AS A GERMAN STATE

French and German Delegates to Peace Conference Favors Its Complete Autonomy.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 28.—The granting of complete autonomy to Alsace-Lorraine as one of the federated German states would in the opinion of the French and German delegates to the international peace conference be a decided step toward better relations between France and Germany. They presented a resolution to this effect today and it was adopted by acclamation by the congress.

TEMPERANCE UNIONS ARE CHECK ON VICE

State President of W. C. T. U. Says Society Better Conditions in State—Meeting at Appleton.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Appleton, Sept. 28.—The 39th annual state convention of the W. C. T. U. opened here last night and in her annual address state president Mrs. W. A. Lawson of Milwaukee said in part: "Because of the W. C. T. U. in this state the percentage of criminals drunkards and other vices has been kept down considerably. Milwaukee has proven itself a city of self purification by the evacuation of the red light district. As a result of conducting dances in connection with the saloons between 300 and 350 illegitimate children are born in the city of Milwaukee yearly. This would not be the case if the law was passed prohibiting dances to be held in a hall with a saloon 'attached.'"

The business last night and today was mostly routine. Tonight there will be a banquet at which eight prominent men in this city will give toasts and addresses, responses to be made by an equal number of women from various parts of the state. The convention will last until Tuesday and officers will be elected on Monday.

LA FOLLETTE PLACED ON HIS METTLE BY MCGOVERN'S ACTION

Latter's Indorsement of Senator's Bitter Enemy Will Mean Bitter Warfare.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Milwaukee, Sept. 28.—There is but one question heard in political circles today. "What will LaFollette do about McGovern's decision?" Numerous answers are given but the most sensible one is that the Senior Senator from Wisconsin will certainly not overlook this latest breach of discipline on the part of the head of the republican ticket and that action sure and swift will come at once. McGovern's declaration for Roosevelt and Johnson has placed the other candidates, on state, county and congressional tickets in a peculiar position. They do not know just what to do and all wait anxiously for word from Madison as to what the Senator is planning before taking any action themselves.

Meanwhile the Bull Mooseers are jubilant, the democrats smiling and the socialists in Milwaukee county confident that their cause has been materially aided. The Bull Mooseers insist that if the rest of the republican nominees for state office and congress do not follow McGovern's lead, they will be bitterly opposed. The democrats believe that McGovern has aided the entire state ticket and assured Karel's election. The socialists can see nothing else than desertion from both the republican and fusion tickets for their candidates.

"Taking it all in all it is a pretty kettle of fish and the outcome can only be guessed at. Under the law McGovern can still remain at the head of the republican state ticket. He might be forced to resign and his place filled by the state central committee of his party, but it is doubtful if he will do so of his own free will. Chairman Scott has nothing to say and thus far no official word from the public has been given out from LaFollette's headquarters."

On every hand is heard the demand that McGovern resign the republican ticket, but this demand comes from the most part from men who have been opposed to him, although some such murmurs are heard on the part of the simon pure LaFollette voters. At any rate the breach between LaFollette and McGovern is wider than ever and from present indications can not be bridged.

It is pointed out by friends of McGovern that he is taking a long shot chance. If the Roosevelt party should win in Wisconsin he will be the political boss. If they should be second in the national election even if they did not win, say have more votes than the republican or democratic candidate for President, the life of the organization is secured and McGovern has made a wise move. At any rate they hold that the Governor could do nothing else and retain his self respect after the way he has been snubbed by LaFollette.

On the other hand it is pointed out that McGovern sold his republican birthright for the mess of pottage offered by the Bull Mooseers in their endorsement, as did Esau of biblical lore. That he is no longer a republican, that his action in seeking the republican nomination, in seeking the votes of the people at the September primaries and then betraying their confidence will work against him at the polls even if LaFollette does not take a hand in the affair.

It is certain, however, that this will not mean the placing of a third ticket in the field, known as Taft republicans, as this would complicate matters too much and the followers of the president are at present well satisfied to let matters stand as they are for the time being at least. One complication arises in the fullness of time. If the people at LaFollette give prominence on pages of newspapers opposite to the McGovern announcement. This is creating considerable amusement and may result in LaFollette's immediate action on the subject.

In '86 we showed in Topeka, Kansas and this year we had 29 elephants with the show. Among this number there were five or six that were not always on their good behavior and consequently were not allowed out in parade. They were left on the lot and chained to stakes and a man left in charge to see that no one got near them. But while the man that was in charge had his back turned, a boy about 9 years old got too close to one of them and he hit him with his trunk, breaking his leg above the ankle. He was quickly taken to his home, only a few blocks away and the doctor sent for. Mr. Forepaugh heard the news and came to the ticket wagon and said to me, "Take my horse and carriage and go to the boy's home and make some kind of a settlement with them. If it's simply a straight fracture he will soon be over it and you ought to settle it for $200 or $300 at the outside. Don't go over $300 at the best."

I found the house, but a lawyer had got there ahead of me and told the father, who was a working man, that he would take the case for half and that we would take in at least $20,000 in Topeka that day and would be glad to give it up rather than to stand a law suit. The doctor had set the limb and told the father and mother that he would have the boy walking in two months and that there was no question but what it would be all right.

I talked with them for a long time and as I found it was impossible to settle for any such amount as Mr. Forepaugh had set, I finally offered them $1,000 and pay the doctor's bill. The doctor was a fine man, one of the nicest I ever met and did all he could to get them to take it. But their advisor said "No, I will attach the entire show and he will give you a good settlement before they get out of town."

I went back to the show and reported to Mr. Forepaugh what I had offered them and he said to me, "Dave, if you had ever paid them $1,000 and paid the doctor's bill I should have charged it all to you except the $300. When I send a man to do anything for me and give him his orders I want him to work to the line and not go over it." I said to him, "Governor, this line of work is outside of what is expected of me, but any time when you think I am the man to go and make a settlement I will have to be allowed to use my own judgment to a certain extent. I found that conditions were altogether different from what you expected and I also knew that $1,000 and the doctor's bill was far better than a long drawn out law suit."

He told me to go up town and find him a good lawyer. George R. Peck, who formerly lived here and at that time was one of the best lawyers in the west was the first one for me to look for. I immediately went to his office and there I found George Kimball, nephew of Mr. Peck in the office and now a resident of this city and George told me Mr. Peck was in Kansas City on some business and would not return for three or four days. He recommended me to another firm. I drove them down to the grounds and Mr. Forepaugh gave them the facts in the case and told them he would fight it to a finish.

The show was attached for $20,000. Adam Sells, one of the famous Sells Brothers had retired from the circus business and lived in Topeka. I went and got Mr. Sells and told him that I wanted him to go on Mr. Forepaugh's bond for $20,000 and when the judge asked me for a bondsman I said to him that Adam Sells would go on Mr. Forepaugh's bond. The judge said, "Mr. Sells, how much are you worth?"

"Well," Mr. Sells said, "I am worth at least $300,000."

The stern judge looked over his glasses at Mr. Sells and said, "Where is it?"

"Well judge," Mr. Sells said, "I have my horse and buggy at the door and if you will get in with me I can show you most of it right here in Topeka. I own both of the two first class hotels of the city, I own so many stores in such a block and so many in another."

The judge said, "You needn't go any farther. The bond is good."

When we got ready to leave Topeka that night I said to Mr. Forepaugh, "I am going to take Mr. Sells with me tonight for I am satisfied the show will be attached again tomorrow."

He said to me, "You needn't worry about that. This bond of $20,000 that you have put up is all that is necessary. But we had a 75 mile run from there and nobody in the next town that we knew in case they should make us any further trouble, so I prevailed on Mr. Sells to go through with us."

Everything went smoothly the next day until we were loading the train at night and then the entire show was attached for $20,000 more, which bond Mr. Sells also signed and then we got a stay of proceedings on account of malicious prosecution. They were trying to tie us up to get a settlement. This law suit was a long drawn out one, several witnesses having to be sent from Philadelphia and when it came to an end the boy was awarded $1,000, which he only got half of and out of that had to pay the doctor. But while the boy only received $1,000 it cost Adam Forepaugh before he got a settlement over $5,000, and after that when I made any settlements for him there were no ropes tied to me and he always told me to go and do the best I could, but make a settlement if possible.

This Adam Sells was one of the four brothers who were famous in circus business thirty years ago, but they are all dead now, the show falling into the hands of the Ringlings and the only blood relation of all of the Sells that is living is a daughter of Peter Sells, who is married and lives in Columbus, Ohio, but not one is living who bears the name of the Sells who were famous for so many years in the show business.

In last week's article I spoke of Spencer Alexander, the boss hostler for so many years with Ringling Bros. who died in Arkansas the day before the show closed. His remains were brought to Barbou and buried in the family lot and the funeral was one of the largest ever held in Barbou. Hundreds of show people from all over the country came to the funeral and the floral offerings were the finest ever seen there. The Ringling Brothers sent a blanket of roses from Chicago which covered the entire casket.

Spencer Alexander had a family of three children, one daughter and two sons. They had all grown up, the daughter was married and had all gone for themselves, so that the bread winner and head of the family was gone. The show had just put in winter quarters the day of the funeral and immediately after the funeral the Ringling boys got together in the office and they said, "Now we must take care of Maggie," meaning Spencer's wife. She was living in one of their houses and they carried there a check for $10,000 and presented it to her and told her as far as the house was concerned for her to stay there as long as she wanted to if she saw fit.

The firms that will use the wives of their deceased employees like this are not many and while the reader may say "They could well afford to," there are many in this world who could afford to, that do not. Haven't you found it so?

Dr. Hartman Says:

Write to Peruna Testimonials, if You Want to Know the Truth.

The following letter was received by Dr. Hartman through his regular correspondence:

"I notice the testimonial of Mrs. Alice Bogle, which you give in your last article. If I should write her do you suppose she would give me further particulars? I have heard it said many times that such testimonials are fakes; that they are either absolutely fictitious or else the people have been hired to write them. I have been inclined to write you a great many times but these stories about patent medicine advertisements have discouraged me from doing so. I am afflicted with catarrh and should like very much to find a remedy such as your article describes."

To the above letter Dr. Hartman made the following reply:

"My dear Madam:—I do not wonder that you are confused and have lost all faith in advertised remedies. There has been so much said against them, so much controversy concerning them, I am not surprised that some people have lost confidence in them."

I wish you would write Mrs. Bogle, as one woman to another. I wish you would ask her whether she has been hired to write such a testimonial, whether her testimonial represents the truth.

I hope you will remember that she is a housewife, like yourself, that she has something to do besides writing letters, that she is a woman of moderate means. I hope you will enclose stamp so she can answer you without loss to herself. Mrs. Bogle is a very estimable lady and no doubt you will both profit by being acquainted with each other."

"Should you conclude to try Peruna for your catarrh I would be very glad to hear of the result. I can assure you that no use will be made of your letter, except by your written consent. Mrs. Bogle very kindly consented to have me use her letter, which is my reason for doing so, and you will be treated exactly as she has been."

People recover from chronic catarrh who take Peruna. There is no doubt about that. Some surprising recoveries are reported almost daily. I have thousands of them in my files.

Peruna is for sale at all drug stores. Special Notice—Many persons are making inquiries for the old-time Peruna. To such would say, this formula is now put out under the name of KATARNO, manufactured by KATARNO Company, Columbus, Ohio. Write them and they will be pleased to send you a free booklet."

Manager Clarke of Pittsburgh is growing weary of the game. He has a big farm in Kansas. Owners of the Pittsburgh team want him to stay as long as he will. His contract also expires this season.

A few pounds of weight is a big factor when topnotchers in the fight game consider a bout. When Ad Wolgast was negotiating for the McFarland match $7,000 didn't seem too much for a little matter of seven pounds. Now Mike Gibbons wants $5,000 for the seven pounds advantage Eddie McGorty would have over him in a proposed battle in New York. A few pounds advantage in weight may turn the tide in a fight, and the boxers evidently have not overlooked the fact.

The proposed world tour of the New York Giants this fall has been practically abandoned. Reason: Charley White, who was to have gone ahead to make arrangements, is ill and can't make the trip.

After squandering three fortunes, Abe Attel has $5,000 to show for fourteen years in the fight game. Terry McGovern used to get $1,000 a round. Now he is tending stage door in New York. Billy Papke has at the most, $10,000. Stanley Ketchel, when he died, two years ago, left a fortune of $140. Jim Corbett went through with all the money he made in fighting. He is saved from hard times only because he is successful on the stage. Truly, not all fighters are financiers.

WEATHER PREVENTS GAME WITH ALUMNI

High School Football Squad Disappointed at Postponement—Racine Asks for a Game.

Owing to the weather conditions today the high school football eleven did not play the alumni as was expected. The grounds were in a bad condition and the coach deemed it inadvisable. Members of the squad were quite disappointed as they have had no real test of their playing powers as yet. It is hoped to stage an encounter next week, so as to give the team some real practice before the strenuous Stoughton game, which takes place there on next Saturday. Practice was fast and snappy last night.

The following men have a possibility of holding their places if they keep up their good work:

O'Connor, L. E.; Cummings, L. I.; Dalton, L. G.; Cannon, C.; Jones, R. G.; Mohr, and Kuhlman, R. T.; Smiley and Connell, R. E.; Stewart, G. B.; Edler, L. H.; Falter, R. H.; Ryan, L. B.

Racine Wants Game.
Telephone call was received yesterday morning from the Racine high school asking for a game to be played at that place on the afternoon of November 9th but owing to the fact that the State Teachers' Convention takes place on that date, it is doubtful that it will be accepted. An effort is being made to have Prof. Coplan handle the team on that date, and to accept this game, if Coach Curtis attends the convention. Prof. Coplan has consented to this, and an announcement will be made later.

At The Theatre

THE MISSOURI GIRL.
The Missouri Girl which comes to the Myers Theatre Sunday September 29, matinee and evening, is a bright rural comedy that pictures life in the Ozark Country in every detail. It has a strong moral which always leaves a good impression, and bears the proud distinction of having the endorsement of all the leading critics of things theatrical, as well as of the pulpit throughout the entire country. The comedy is clean, refined and exceedingly funny, being the kind of fun that you are not ashamed to have your wife, sister, mother or sweetheart see.

Mr. Raymond has equipped the play with the best of accessories and has spared no expense in making its production one worthy of the patronage accorded it.

The character of 'Zeke Dobson' is a woman of this sort. The twist in this case is derived from the absolute novelty of the man not loving her at all, and kissing her only under protest, because he had hired her to pose as his wife in order that she may pluck from the fire the chestnut of a fat job by reason of his boss falling in love with her. When it is stated that he has a wife of his own to whom he is devoted, you can have some idea of the complications.

"By the way, for all we women are so afraid of mice, and although the theatre would die without our support, I can't think of a play with 'mouse' in the title that has not been a success. There was 'Mon and Mice', 'A Country Mouse', and four companies playing 'The Lion and the Mouse', and now, the greatest of all 'mice', 'The Blue Mouse'."

"OFFICER 666."

"High speed on a laughing track" is the way one enthusiast wrote in describing the attractiveness of "Officer 666," the play of that name which Colman & Harris will present in this city at the Myers Theatre Tuesday October 8.

"Officer 666" is a fine farce cleverly acted. The story has to do with a great police mystery, into the scenes of which is introduced a marvelous crook, a wonderful policeman and a most fascinating love affair.

ROLICKING COMEDY GIVEN LAST NIGHT

Dave Lewis Scores Hit at Myers Theatre in "Don't Lie to Your Wife."

Dave Lewis in a rollicking comedy, "Don't Lie to Your Wife," scored a hit with a large-sized audience at the Myers theatre last evening. Material of the play centers on the return of the wife who was supposed to be away for an extended time, to find her husband and friends entertaining strange females, was a situation which was developed in a ludicrous manner.

Mr. Lewis had a fine comedy role as the husband and was supported by a good cast. The piece had little if any plot, depending entirely on the situations, clever rebuffs and puns. Several songs were introduced which were well received. The production was appreciated by a critical audience.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

Our home is not a pleasant place. My mother is for Roosevelt, and meals no more than pass the grace.

Than Pa delivers him a welt. "God help the country," he exclaims. "When women folks are voting, too, and rounding up a lot of dames."

Is all a rogue will have to do!" Ma turns as purple in the face.

As one of those Satsuma plums, and says the men, to our disgrace. "You never see a man," she cries.

"But wears a big ring in his nose!" And Pa, with wild and flashing eyes, exclaims, "Quit stepping on my toes!"

Then Aunt Estelle is strong for Debs. Which makes the situation worse. He never makes a speech, she says, but he recites a lot of verse.

"The dearest man!" says Aunt Estelle. "You ought to hear him say 'Sail on!'"

And other attributes as well, "Till everyone begins to yawn."

No, home is not a pleasant place. Nor will it be for some time yet. Too many people in the race—

Too many people over. Poor Pa's for Taft—the only one—

In fact, no two are for the same. And a meal at our house is more fun. In some ways, than a baseball game.

—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The vote for president in California, four years ago, exceeded four hundred thousand and it is estimated that the figures will be doubled this year by the women's vote.

The fact that half a dozen states have adopted woman suffrage, suggests that there may be many homes like the one referred to at the head of this column.

When the late Mrs. J. Ellen Foster of Iowa, came to Janesville during the Blaine campaign, some years ago, and attempted to interest the women of the city in national politics, she failed to secure an audience.

In talking with her she said that the mothers of the land were densely ignorant concerning politics and political parties, and said that they owed it to their sons, at least, to inform themselves on vital questions which have to do with public life.

It is said of the average voter that he is ignorant, and largely under the dictation of designing leaders who aspire to office. That his politics, like his theology, is a matter of inheritance, and that a brass band is required to arouse him from indifference and lethargy. This is why music and marching clubs are prominent features in many campaigns.

If this is true concerning the men of the county, and it is to large extent, what may be said of the great army of women, who never give the question a thought, and whose time is so thoroughly invested in the care of the home that the days are all too short to satisfy loving ministrations.

The claim is made that women, as a class, are more intelligent than men, and it is safer to grant the contention than to discuss it. That she is also more emotional, and more easily influenced by appeals to the heart is evidenced in church membership and attendance.

This fact is fully appreciated by Colonel Roosevelt, who is turning it to good account in the whirlwind campaign in which he is engaged. Senator La Follette is also impressed with the same notion, and so his wife and daughter are called to his aid in Wisconsin.

The spirit which prompts this class of leaders may be called philanthropic, but it is a part of the game of politics, pure and simple. It was played very effectively at Los Angeles, a few months ago, when an election was pending, during the McNamara brothers' trial, and nothing but confession on the part of the guilty men, saved the city from passing into the hands of men who were in sympathy with the outlaws.

There is no sentiment in business, and less in politics, and yet business is the foundation of prosperity, and politics the foundation of government, because parties could not exist without organization, and a republican form of government would be chaotic without parties.

Politics is a great factor in society and is the directing and controlling influence in every sort of organized life. It stimulates rivalry for leadership in women's clubs, and invades the church with an air of diplomacy that is often refreshing.

When the late President Fish of the Illinois Central railroad was relieved from office and responsibility, he soon discovered that political forces had quietly deposed him, and that his wife was largely responsible, because she had offended New York's "four hundred."

The game of politics is not new to the women of the land, and it is played for all it is worth in the field which they occupy, but to claim that they are prepared, or that the rank and file desire to enter the larger arena, is hardly a debatable question.

There is only one national political party with which the average woman is at all familiar, and that is the prohibition party. Its short creed is easily comprehended and its ideal purpose appeals to the heart of woman-kind, and she readily believes that if the saloon was abolished, her husband and boys would be safe.

She is also impressed with the notion that if she had the ballot, every city in the land would be compelled to adopt prohibition and the nation would be cleansed from its greatest evil by her first vote.

The city of Denver, Colorado, held an election a time ago, and one of the leading issues was the question of license or no license. The women of course were interested, for they had a chance to vote. One of the leading magazines sent a special correspondent to the city, a month before election, to study conditions. He found that the campaign managers for the party which favored license, had in their employ a small army of women. When election day came these women were the busiest workers in the wards and at the polls, and license carried by a large majority.

This is current history and not a fairy tale. The moral speaks for itself, and is disappointing to purveyors of womanhood.

The average woman is so far from being a student of parties, and their relation to government, that it would bother her to define the principles for which they stand, and the policies which they attempt to carry out.

The freedom of the American ballot is a privilege, especially in the larger centers of population, where the balance of power is in the hands of the irresponsible masses—men who represent nothing in the way of property and never pay a dollar in taxes.

Not many years ago the city of Chicago woke up one morning, after a city election, to find that a measure had been passed authorizing the purchase of the traction companies at an expense of 75 million dollars. A few days later a bunch of foreigners took possession of a street car, refusing to pay fare because the city had voted to buy the road, and everybody would be carried free.

The city of New York today is carrying a debt about equal to the nation's obligations, and largely because of the voting influences of an irresponsible mob. It is an open question whether such conditions would improve, with the freedom of the ballot extended to women.

The time may come, as it should, when all questions relating to property interests should be settled by taxpayers, regardless of sex.

During the state political fight between what was known as the stalwart and halfbreed factions, in the republican party, the feeling of bitterness became so intense that neighborhood quarrels were of frequent occurrence, and family life was more or less disturbed.

Harmony in the home is necessary to peace and happiness. When the average wife becomes a voter she will not be inclined to permit politics to interfere with domestic relations, and the final result will simply mean a larger volume of ballots. You don't believe it, "gentle reader," of course, but think about it, and then consult "John."

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

Easy.

There are numerous ways to be happy, There are numerous ways to be gay; But the generous feller, Big-hearted and meller, He has doped out the easiest way.

A feller kin be quite contented By makin' his brother men glad, Because it's reflected, Right back unexpected, The best joy a man ever had.

A feller don't have to be wealthy To play a philanthropist's part; He must just be cheerful To always be cheerful And keep the sunshine in his heart.

I'd rather shake hands with a feller Who's got a glad smile on his face Than one with a million, Or even a billion, Who's lacking in that savin' grace.

It costs not a cent to be cheerful Or to give a warm clasp of the hand, Sometimes it is bunk And the feller's a hunk, But it don't hurt you none, understand.

We all love the things that are pleasant, A feller that spreads lots of salve May come just to flatter, But that doesn't matter, He's a purty durned good friend to have.

From the Hickeyville Clarion.

Mr. Amory Lucks, who went west to make his fortune six months ago, having washed his hands of this place forever, has returned and accepted a position as first assistant chambermaid at Amos Butts' livery, feed and sales stable.

Hank Purdy, one of our local philanthropists, has figured out a scheme to beat the penny-in-the-slot peanut machine in the office of the Hotel Hickeyville. He has bored a hole in a one-cent piece and tied a silk thread to it. After he works the machine eight or ten times and gets a pocketful of peanuts he yanks the cord out and puts it away. Constable Ezra Link, who has been at work on the case, has been considerably baffled as Hank has worn a false mustache and blue eyeglasses while doing the work. The constable has seen him working the machine several times, but on account of the false mustache and eyeglasses he has hesitated to step up and make arrest for fear he might get the wrong party.

The story of a wonderful cure is told here. A wife was supposed to be on her deathbed. "John," said she to her husband, "In case of my death, I think a man of your temperament and domestic disposition should, for the sake of the children, marry again after a reasonable length of time." The husband pondered for a moment and then said: "Well, my dear, that relieves my mind of a great burden. That widow across the street has acted rather demurely, when I have seen her lately; in fact ever since you were taken ill. She is not the woman that you are, of course, but she is plump and pretty and I am sure she would make me a very desirable wife. The next day the woman, who was about to die, was able to sit up; the following day she went down stairs and on the third day she went to see her dressmaker."

Thin Soup and Other Things. Rev. T. W. Young of Detroit has recently delivered a sermon on the marriage state and declared that many a man has been driven to drink by being obliged to eat thin soup. The pastor is right, but he does not go far enough. Thin soup is not the only thing that drives a man to drink. Here are some of the others:

Thumb prints on dinner plates. Wire dish rag in Irish stew. Hair in the butter. Suspender button in the hash. No towel in the bathroom. Slippery cake of soap on the floor. Pale pink coffee. No pearl shirt studs in sight. False teeth left on dining room table. Razor used to open can of tomatoes. Back comb found in can of strawberries. Canned cherries that are not pitted. Baby's rattle in bowl of creamed potatoes. Best derby hat used to plug up broken window.

According to Uncle Abner. I don't like cucumbers and I'm glad of it, for if I did like 'em I'd be eatin' 'em all the time and I hate the darned things.

Every time I see a woman kissin' a pug dog I get more respect for one that smokes a pipe or dips snuff.

It is gradually gettin' so the bank presidents don't wear celluloid collars and red neckties like they used to.

There is only one thing more dangerous for a gal than marryin' a feller and that is goin' out in one of them cranky canoes with him.

Since the two conventions got mixed up so bad, Grandpa Bibbins says he don't know who he's for and he don't give a dang.

Miss Amy Pringle says that every feller who sends her a love letter written on a typewriter queers him self forever, so far as she is concerned.

How's This? We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

WHERE DO YOU LIVE?

Asked that question, you would give the name of the town in which or near which you reside.

But that is not where you live. That is merely the place where you are staying. You live in a world apart from your daily abode. For instance:

Some live in a world of leisure. They live a lounging sort of existence, loitering through the hours, taking the line of least resistance, choosing the things that make for luxury and ease. Caring only for themselves, dodging all hardships, they seek the pampered way.

Others live in a world of action. They are restless, unquiet, agitated. Roving in spirit, ambitious of doing, they are incessant, brisk, lively. They go the pace.

Some live in a world of dissipation. These walk daily the primrose path of dalliance. They cry: "Let us chase the winged butterfly of pleasure! Watch the druids dance! Listen to the patter of the fountain! Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we die!"

Some live in a world of thought. The mind to them a kingdom is. Pitying alike those who dally and those who riot, theirs is the world of intellect. In that world they live, move and have their being. They are the rare people who are good company for themselves.

Others live in a world of feeling. Though easily moved, they are slow of action, enjoying the more exercise of their emotions. They are quite ready to laugh with those who laugh and mourn with those who mourn, but slow to dry the mourner's tear. Having keen sensibilities, each new sensation gives them delight.

Some live in a world of service. They ask nothing better than the chance to aid their fellows, and they give to that service the best-themselves. Kindness and good will, charity and helpfulness distinguish their lives.

Others live in a world of sacrifice. These are they who find their highest joy, their deepest sense of living, in the elimination of self. Rare spirits are they who have learned that "the way of the cross leads home."

And there are few other worlds than these.

In which of them do you live? How does it suit you?

Have you ever discussed with yourself the possibility of moving out of the world in which you live into one that will suit you better?

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Adds Healthful Qualities to the Food

Prof. Prescott, of the University of Michigan, explains why Royal Baking Powder adds healthful qualities to the food.

Testifying before the Pure Food Committee of Congress, the Professor stated that fruit acids were excellent articles of food and that of these cream of tartar, the acid of grapes, held rank with the highest both in itself and its effect in the process of leavening and baking. He regarded the results from cream of tartar baking powder as favorable to health. Scientists and hygienists are in accord with this opinion.

Royal is the only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar.

In selecting a carpet you are choosing something that will stare you in the face morning, afternoon and evening, day after day, for years to come.

Much depends on whether you discard the cheap imitations sold in careless stores, with their apparent present saving in price and pay a trifle more for the best of the kind you are going to use; something that the maker is not ashamed to weave his name into.

The carpets shown you here are the best of their kind. The patterns in very many cases are exclusive, and quality for quality, the prices are as low as you will find elsewhere—thanks to the largeness of our purchases.

FIND DEFINITE CLUE TO HORSE AND THIEF

Learned Beyond Question That They Were Seen On Farm of James Little West of Janesville. That the horse and buggy stolen from the Ryan livery last Monday afternoon were taken in a westerly direction was learned today when James Little informed them that the rig had stopped at his farm about four miles west of this city that afternoon. The horse had been raised by Little, who at once recognized it and called it by name. W. E. Kelly, the driver, offered to sell it for $250. Little at once told him that the animal belonged to Ryan and asked where he got it. Kelly insisted that the horse was his own and that he did not get it from the Ryan livery. He asked the directions to Albany, Center, and Madison and drove off in the direction of Fellow's station. Sheriff E. H. Ransom is following up the new clue. Kelly sharpens knives and surgical instruments for a living and may be practicing that trade in one of the nearby cities.

Ground over an abandoned cistern, said to have been underneath the old Hyatt House, caved in this morning at the rear of the Connor's saloon on West Milwaukee street permitting the front wheels of a loaded wagon belonging to the Croak Brewery to sink into the earth. The wagon was prevented from dropping further by the pole which rested on solid ground. The team was unhitched and the load transferred to one of the wagons of the fish dray line.

FORTY DOLLAR CUSPIDORS FOR NEW STATE CAPITOL

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Sept. 28.—One of the sample cuspidors in the capitol will cost $40. It will weigh 46 pounds. The janitors of the capitol are wondering why they will have to use a wheelbarrow to wheel it out of doors. The matter came to the attention of the secretary of state today in a voucher drawn in favor of Burlington Brass Works but there was an error in the statement it was thought, but inquiry at the office of Lew F. Porter, secretary of the capitol building commission confirmed the report. This is only a sample cuspidor and it is not known whether the entire capitol will be equipped with cuspidors of this size.

PLAINTIFF WON OUT IN THE HORSE CASE

Jury Returned Verdict for Martin Paulson in Action Brought Against Dr. M. A. Cunningham.

A jury of six in Justice Stanley Tallman's court last evening brought in a verdict for the plaintiff in the case of Martin Paulson against Dr. M. A. Cunningham and awarded the plaintiff $30 damages as the amount due on the sale of a horse. The trial of the case was started at half past one o'clock yesterday afternoon, but frequent clashes between the attorneys caused it to drag through the afternoon, and it was after six o'clock before the case went to the jury. The jury returned its verdict in about ten minutes, thus settling aside the pleas of the defendant that he had acted as an agent and that the contract for the sale of the horse was void because the deal had been consummated on a Sunday.

The plaintiff's attorney, John L. Fisher, opened his case by calling the defendant as an adverse witness. In his adverse examination Mr. Fisher asked the physician if it was true that he charged the city scavenger books at the doctor's office, showed that his transactions with the scavengers were called for, but the attorney for the defense objected to this. Mr. Fisher issued a subpoena duces tecum and accompanied by a court officer, Dr. Cunningham went to his office and secured them. The attorney for the defense was then loath to have the books examined by his opponent's attorney, but the court ruled that the latter might, although Mr. Cunningham strenuously objected to it, unless the examination were confined to certain pages. The claim of the defense was that the horse had been purchased by Dr. Cunningham as an agent for Rendle Herdendorf, and the plaintiff's attorney sought to show that the defendant had not acted as an agent, but had purchased the horse to sell to Herdendorf. Arguments over objections raised by Attorney Cunningham consumed a large part of the time, but occasionally the tediousness of the trial was relieved by an exchange of personal remarks between Mr. Fisher and Mr. Cunningham.

The costs of the action, $23.20, were assessed against Dr. Cunningham.

MUCH INTERESTED IN THE REPORTED SUIT

Janesville Policyholders in Bankers' Life Anxious Over Alleged Petition for Appointment of Receiver.

Some four hundred odd policyholders in the Bankers' Life Insurance company of Des Moines, in Janesville, are much interested in the telegraphic report that suit for an accounting, judgment and immediate appointment of a receiver for the company mentioned had been filed in Indianapolis by Charles W. McLaughlin, who alleged he acted for 158,000 policyholders. According to the report the officials of the company in Des Moines know nothing of the suit. H. D. Murdoch, local representative of the company, also knew nothing more than the telegraphic report and gave little credence to that.

MANY APPLICATIONS FOR FEBRUARY TERM

Rush for Second Citizenship Papers by Those in Danger of Having First Papers Declared Void.

With nearly a hundred new citizens admitted at the special September term of the circuit court, the rush of applicants for second papers to be heard at the February term of the court has already begun by persons holding first papers who are in danger of having them declared void after the first of June, 1913.

According to the new naturalization law all men holding first papers which were taken out prior to September 28, 1906, the date of the passage of the new law, must take out their second papers before June 1, next, or the first papers will be null by the terms of the law. This will require the taking out of the papers a second time which means a wait of two years before application can be made for second papers. During this time the applicant cannot vote as was allowed under the old act.

Twenty-two applications have already been received at the clerk of the court's office for the February term of interest. Men of German birth lead the list with a total of 48; the other countries were represented as follows: Norway, 23; England, 11; Denmark, 7; Scotland, 4; Russia, 3; Sweden, 4; Ireland, 3; Switzerland, 2; Canada, 2; Turkey, 2; and Greece, Italy and Austria, one each.

LIFE OF E. L. DWYER WAS WELL INSURED

Carried at Least Fifteen Thousand—Detectives Here For Companies—Burial Not Arranged.

At least fifteen thousand dollars in insurance was carried by Edward L. Dwyer, the New York broker who took his life in this city Wednesday night. He had one policy for $10,000 in the New York Mutual Life, and another for $5,000 in the Equitable Life Assurance Company. Daniel E. Kane, of Chicago, a detective in the employ of the firm of Shippy, Hunt & Dorman, for the insurance companies in which he had policies. He viewed the corpse last evening and satisfied himself that it was that of Mr. Dwyer. He had a full length portrait of him in his possession which was an excellent likeness. Mr. Kane said that Dwyer has a sister living to whom money will probably be turned over. This afternoon he had an interview with Mrs. Mary Marvin of Tulcan, at the office of District Attorney Duwiddie concerning the affairs of the dead man.

No arrangements have been made for the funeral and burial of Mr. Dwyer and the body is being held by Frank Kimball, the undertaker awaiting advice from his financial agents, J. W. Place & Company of New York. The Knights, Templar lodge of this city stands ready to conduct the funeral if no other arrangements are made.

POSTPONE OPENING RECITAL OF CLUB

Mr. Zukowski Unable to Appear Before Apollo Club, Oct. 7, Owing to Conflicting Engagement.

The opening date of the Apollo club has been changed from the 7th to the 14th of October. This was made necessary on account of a letter received by Mr. Parker, president of the Apollo club, from Mr. Zukowski, with whom he is under engagement, play in Pittsburgh on October 7th. They have refused to release Mr. Zukowski for that night, so the club will now be obliged to defer the opening date until October 14th. Mr. Zukowski is still violinist for the Thomas orchestra, and the manager of the orchestra does not feel that they could spare him.

The opening recital will be given by Mr. Zukowski, violinist, and Miss Callahan, mezzo-soprano.

The November number will be a piano recital by Mrs. Sturkow-Ryder and probably the December number will be given by Enrico Palmetto, the most wonderful tenor whose voice is said to be on a par with that of Canino.

MAY POSTPONE MEETING OF THE TWILIGHT CLUB.

Time of Meeting Announced, October 2, Conflicts With Address of Jane Adams.

Because of the conflict with the address on "Suffrage" to be given by Jane Adams at the Congregational church next Tuesday evening, the meeting of the Twilight club which had been announced for that time will probably be postponed until the following Tuesday evening, October 15. For many years past the Twilight club has attempted, but in vain, to secure an address by Jane Adams, and it is because its members desire to avail themselves of an opportunity to hear her speak that their initial meeting of the season will probably be postponed.

Joe Reits, One Of A Number Arraigned On A Charge of Intoxication Claims He Was Robbed.

"I did not drink much, Judge, only a whiskey and a couple of beers," said Joe Reits when brought before Judge Fife on a charge of intoxication this morning. "Someone must have put some 'done' in my beer and followed me because the thirteen dollars I had is gone."

Reits was brought to the station in the patrol wagon last night from a house on South Jackson street by Patrolmen John Brown and Tom Morrissey, people in that neighborhood having complained of his making a disturbance. He consented to enter a plea of "guilty" and was sentenced to six days in the county jail in default of a fine of $2 and costs.

Ed. Hurley, alias Briggs, was placed under arrest yesterday afternoon while carrying home a load of vegetables in addition to his "excess baggage." Judge Fife gave him ten days' confinement for eight.

COLUMBUS DAY WILL BE OBSERVED HERE

Local Council Knights of Columbus Will Observe Anniversary of Landing of Columbus, October 14.

Members of Carroll Council No. 596 Knights of Columbus will observe the 420th anniversary of the landing of Columbus on Monday, October 14. Saturday, October 13, is the anniversary day of the landing of the great discoverer, but the day is an inconvenient one for the exercises planned and for that reason the celebration was set over to the fourteenth. A banquet for the knights and their ladies will be held in their hall at 7:30 and an appropriate program will be given afterwards, the main feature of which will be an address on the subject, "The Discovery of America." Other details of the program have not been arranged, but the evening's entertainment will close with a dancing party in one of the halls in the city. Knights of Columbus throughout the state will generally observe the anniversary.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the local council is made up of the following members: George Sennett, chairman; James Cronin, W. H. Dougherty, James Hefner, Harold Dolan and P. Clumb.

Graphic Description Given of Fighting Around Chattanooga.

A most interesting account of the battle of Chattanooga, November 23 to November 25, 1863, from a Janesville soldier who took part in the fighting in and around Lookout Mountain is taken from the files of the Gazette. The writer was J. M. Kimball, now deceased, one of the brave men who went out to the war in a Janesville company. Soon after he entered the war, Mr. Kimball was transferred to the Signal Corps and was a member of that organization at the famous battle. His letter written from the scene of the battle, on December 7, 1863 and published in the issue of the Gazette of December 15, is most graphic in its descriptions of the fighting and the telling of how Bragg and Longstreet were outgeneraled by Grant and Sherman.

Signal Corps, 4th Army Corps, Chattanooga, Tenn., Dec. 4, 1863. Editor Gazette:—I would have written you several days since but the inability of obtaining information in this town was a very unexpected one. It was not looked for by even the most hopeful of our army. The condition of this army was such that many good judges pronounced an aggressive movement on our part utterly impossible. The greater part of our men had not recovered from the effects of our long fast. They were weak, and it did not require a very great amount of labor to completely exhaust them. Our animals were much less fit for labor than the men. The worn out, depleted and weak condition of our men and animals was well known to Bragg and as he thought that before February, he could reach here before February, he concluded that he could send Longstreet with a picked corps to overwhelm Burnside, gain our rear, and compel us to leave here. At the same time Bragg intended to hold us where we were, and should we attempt to retreat he would fall on our rear and completely pulverize this army. The full feeling which has existed between Bragg and Longstreet since the battle of Chickamauga was another reason why Bragg wanted Longstreet away from here. This was a very fine trap which Bragg had set for Grant to walk into; but, alas! for rebel glory—the best laid schemes will sometimes fail.

The very day that the exultant Longstreet began to cross the Tennessee to capture Burnside and his whole army, General Sherman's advance arrived on the other side of the river. His men were at once served with four days' rations, eighty rounds of cartridge, and kept ready to move at a moment's notice. But now the river began to rise very fast, and it was discovered that we had not pontoons enough for the bridge, while the river was so very full of driftwood that it was not possible to lay down a bridge. This delayed Sherman's crossing from Saturday to Tuesday; the 24th, when he crossed the river six miles above here on pontoons, landed between two rebel picket stations, surprised and captured all of them with the firing of only one shot. By noon, on Tuesday, Sherman had nearly all of his infantry and cavalry across; had the pontoon bridges completed, and his artillery and trains were crossing rapidly. Strange as it may appear up to this time he had met no resistance from the enemy. Why they allowed such a force to gain a foothold on their flank without giving battle, is still a mystery. It is supposed it must have been a part of Bragg's deep game which he has been playing for the last two years. But to go back a little. On the afternoon of the 23rd of November, General Thomas opened fire on the rebel left and center, with some heavy guns from Forts Wood, Negley and Whittaker. For about an hour there was a heavy fire kept up on the whole line, when our infantry charged and took the first line of the rebel works, together with about 400 prisoners. That night our pickets in front of the city were well advanced, and so very severe was the rebel fire on them, that each man was compelled to dig a small pit to shelter him from the rebel sharpshooters. The success of our men in this move gave our men tady, N. Y., is reported to have been even prevented by the courts from selling at cost or giving away to its poorer citizens ice purchased by it last winter for that purpose. English municipalities seem to find no legal difficulties to prevent the manufacturing of ice in municipal plants and the selling of it. The municipal corporation of Bolton, England, some years ago established an ice and cold storage plant in the basement of the market hall in the center of the town. There were two machines, each having a total producing capacity of ten tons ice per day. Recently one of these old machines has been replaced with one of more modern design and higher efficiency capable of producing 30 tons of ice per day. This plant was formally inaugurated July 18 by the mayor of Bolton. The cost of the whole installation complete was about $38,400; this including ice tanks, motors and crane, electric lighting, etc.—Municipal Journal.

OSHKOSH JUNIOR CIVIC LEAGUE HAS EXHIBIT

Announcement is made that an exhibit of flowers and vegetables grown by members of the Junior Civic League, which is composed of school children, will be made in the old council chamber at the city hall Saturday afternoon and evening, and will be locally so that they can be seen by the best advantage. Each exhibit will be tagged with the name and school of the child making it and then placed on tables assigned to the several schools whose children are among the exhibitors. During the afternoon the exhibit will be open to the public inspection and will be judged for the award of prizes. In the evening an appropriate program will be given and the award of the prizes announced, the winners receiving the rewards for their successful efforts. — Oshkosh Northwestern.

USE BEET SUGAR SYRUP AS DUST PREVENTATIVE

Rocky Ford, Colo.—An innovation in street treatment is being tried by Superintendent Noble of the American Beet Sugar Company. Beet Sugar syrup, a by-product of every sugar factory, which sells to the farmers for feeding purposes for $10 a ton, is being applied. It was first tried on the tennis courts at the factory, and so fine a surface did it produce that Noble decided to apply the syrup to the streets. A small section of one of the streets was coated with the syrup, and after being rolled has produced a surface free from dust and one that is much harder and more even than any made with the different oil preparations that have been tried.

MALTED MILK COMPANY HAS AESTHETIC IDEALS

(Racine Times) In order that the beauty of its grounds and buildings can not be marred by unsightly buildings being erected in the close proximity, the Horlick Malted Milk Co. has purchased the ten acres adjacent to its grounds, which formerly comprised Wolff's Park.

Some time ago there was a rumor that a junk yard was to be established on the grounds just purchased, although nothing definite has been decided. Horlick's Malted Milk Co. believed the junk yard, because of the continuous noise all day and the general unsightliness, would detract from the charm of the grounds and buildings which have been beautified at such a great expense, and immediately decided to purchase the property to protect the company.

FOND DU LAC INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL WILL SOON OPEN

(Fond du Lac Commonwealth) The third floor of the Model Laundry building was leased Saturday evening by the industrial board of education for quarters for the new continuation school, which will be formally opened for work Oct. 14. The board of education ordered the purchase of some drawing tables, domestic science tables, charts, and such other paraphernalia as will be needed in the work.

According to the census of the required students for the school there are 150 children in the city who will be obliged at the outset to attend the continuation school. Of this number there are 76 boys and 74 girls. The students will be required to attend the school at least five hours a week.

MADISON MAY DISCONTINUE COLLECTION OF GARBAGE

The city of Madison may quit the garbage collection business. It was reported to the street committee recently that several parties would like to buy a certain amount of the collection to the city. The garbage collectors are paid by the city and no profit is made by municipality.

MAY GIVE RIVER FRONTAGE FOR BUILDING BOULEVARD

(Rockford-Register Gazette.) Owners of river frontage from Mississippi park north to High bridge are again trying to bring about an agreement to turn it over to the park commission.

"It does not look possible for us ever to come to an agreement as to how we shall improve it and to give the property to the park commission is the best solution," said one of the frontage owners. "This would be an important link in the boulevard scheme that has been advanced."

NEW BELVIDERE LIBRARY NEARING COMPLETION

Belvidere's new Carnegie library building is now nearing completion. It is stated that all the expenditures will bring the total well within the $17,500 gift. There has been received from Mr. Carnegie $5,000 of the gift. The building is to be finished by December 1 of this year.

CLEANLINESS OF MILK TESTED IN BISMARCK

Bismarck, N. D.—The city health department is now using a new and simple apparatus for testing the cleanliness of milk. This consists of a copper cylinder, holding one pint, in which the milk is placed and filtered through a specially prepared disk of cotton. Any dirt in the milk is collected on the cotton filter and can be shown at once. The cotton disks can be filed away, mailed to the milk producer or produced in court as evidence. Milk sediment testers are now being used in many cities and are said to be the most important test for clean milk that has been brought out for many years.

SETTLE WITH FOND DU LAC FOR REPAIRS TO STREET

Admitting their liability relative to the defective condition of the brick pavement on East First street, between Main and Portland streets, the Barber Asphalt company has paid to the city of Fond du Lac the sum of $650, that being the amount demanded by the city as a cash settlement to cover the repair work on the street. The settlement, which was made by the board of public works, will be submitted to the council for approval.

SAVES MONEY BY BUILDING STREETS.

Whitehall, Mich.—Whitehall has completed the building of two and one-half miles of paved streets under the direction of the local Street Commissioner. The city advertised for bids, but the city deemed them too high and proceeded to do the work. The total cost was but a trifle over 75 per cent of the lowest bid.

MAKE ANNUAL APPROPRIATIONS

At a special meeting of the Menominee (Michigan) city council held this week the appropriations for the ensuing year were made. The total amount appropriated is $78,908.20, or $1,200 more than last year. The matter of appropriations was the only business transacted at the meeting.

Smuggled Tobacco Popular.

Smuggling is still a fine art at Deal, England. Most of the smugglers are fishermen. The smuggling is mainly in tobacco and spirits. Smuggled tobacco is in strong request throughout the agricultural district of eastern Kent. It is hard, black, powerful and seems to suit the local palate. To the unaccustomed stranger it is not a pleasant smoke, but many a man of Kent waits longingly for the arrival of the smugglers' carrier with his fresh supply.

OFFER TO RUN PUMP FOUR MONTHS FREE

City of Appleton Made Singular Offer by Electric Power and Other Companies.

Appleton, Wis.—Appleton has an opportunity of having its water pumped free of charge for a period of four months.

The commission and cities generally will also have opportunity during that period of determining by practical demonstration the value or usefulness of an electrically operated centrifugal pump, which its designer and manufacturers declare will equal anything on the market for efficiency and economy in a water works pumping station.

The Appleton Machine Company stands back of a proposition made jointly by the B. M. Osburn Company of Chicago; the Appleton Machine Company of Appleton; the General Electric Company of Chicago, and the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company of Appleton, agreeing to furnish and install the necessary equipment for the pumping station and operate it at their own expense for a period of four months to demonstrate to the citizens and to the commission that for efficiency and economy the Hayton centrifugal pump made at the plant of the Appleton Machine Company excels anything on the market. The installation of the entire equipment and its operation for the above mentioned period will cost the city practically nothing—Appleton Post.

VILLAGE OF MT. HOREB TO PROVIDE A LAKE

Park Association Formed To Confine Water of Small Stream in Six Acre Tract.

Nature not having provided the place with an adequate water supply for amusement purposes, citizens of Mt. Horeb village, twenty miles west of Madison, have taken the situation in hand and will build an artificial lake. Articles of incorporation of the Lake Park Association of Mt. Horeb with a capital stock of $10,000 have been filed and the projected work will be taken up at once. The incorporators are G. E. Mickelson, president of the village, Sidney Sylvester, T. G. Lingard, N. C. Evans, Otto B. Dahle, J. N. Dahlen and Andrew Hoff.

Mt. Horeb is set high on the Blue Mounds ridge and has no running water. Just north of the place, however, is a small stream and the plan is to construct a dam to confine its waters. Options have been obtained on about forty acres of land and this has been surveyed and laid out for a pleasure park. The lake will cover but six acres, but a baseball park and auto drive also are included in the plans.

MILWAUKEE LETTER ON GENERAL NEWS MOST INTERESTING

First of Series of Interesting Talks
by Ellis Usher on State Matters.

Milwaukee, Sept. 28.—The postponement of the Vanderbilt Cup races last Saturday, after a perfectly hopeless season of rain, was, in the natural order of things, an omen of better weather. The weather has been fine, nearly ever since, and the races at their new date, a week hence, seem likely to have the part of ideal weather for which Milwaukee is noted. These races, when I found out how careful were the preparations for accidents, hospital service, nurse, ambulances, etc., have a rather grim aspect. The preparations, for death and broken bones, were entirely matter-of-fact and justified by experience. The crowds no doubt, are attracted by this unquestioned presence of death and peril. Some of our "leisure class" must have their "thrillers" and the aviation field and the automobile course furnish the necessary conditions of tragedy. And a number of the men who take these chances, like many of those who risk life in the air, are men of independent wealth, who drive these racing demons for the personal touch of adventure and daredevil spice. Doesn't it make you think of a Roman holiday? When the sated old Romans summoned gladiators to do battle with infuriated wild beasts, they were only risking the lives of slaves. They didn't prepare with the same care and detail for nursing the injured. But was not the taste similar. Civilization and barbarism blood thirst run in concentric lines as certain stages of development. It is said that aviation has cost over 500 lives up to date, but we must have a man fly at every fair.

There is a new peril developing in the field of public utilities in Wisconsin, that was bound to follow in the wake of the socialistic and near socialistic agitation of these matters. The mayor of Manitowoc is a socialist. He wants "hands off", by the State Railroad Commission as to Manitowoc's municipal utilities, and in the same breath wants the commission interfere with the telephone company. I don't know anything about Manitowoc's municipal utilities, but if they will stand the tests that must be applied to privately owned and financially sound public utilities, they are very rare exceptions. The peril I had in mind, in the opening sentence, is the sale of all the unprofitable, privately owned, public utilities to the municipalities. This is already to some extent, municipal ownership sounds well, but why people can get enthusiastic over it is strange. They know they never get the municipal authorities to do anything, as or when they want it done. They put up with water service, and other service, that would breed a riot against a privately owned company, because they are helpless. Public officials so often are irresponsible or incompetent, or even worse. The Wall Street Journal puts some good doctrine into a nutshell as follows:

"The operation of a public utility is a business in which the public is, or should be, an equal partner. The franchise belongs to the people, the plant and the commercial business to the concern which put up the money for equipment. It has been too often figured that the private corporation was the exclusive owner. The sooner it is recognized that the people are partners and will profit as much by monopoly as will the private owners, the sooner we shall arrive at an intelligent estimate of utilities."

The research parties of the Archaeological Society are doing fine work in the way of preliminary surveys this season and the records of the state will be permanently enlarged and scientifically enriched as a result. One party, consisting of J. P. Schumacher and John H. Glaser, have made interesting notes of a cruise through northern Oconto county, where they found village sites and mounds hitherto unrecorded. A particularly fine mound, ten feet high, an Anderson Lake, was one of their finds. Secretary Brown made a day's trip through points near La Crosse. On an early Indian village site, many Indian remains have been found there. The Secretary is now on a cruise through St. Croix and Barron counties. Another party has been busy in Rock county. Another on the west shore of Green Bay, and the season's work will develop large results. The Wisconsin Archaeological Society is the most active society in the country, owing somewhat to the fact that no other state is so rich in Indian remains of the prehistoric sort.

A number of papers have published the statement that the new United States law, requiring the marking of paid reading matter, would go into effect October 1st. This is an error. The law is in effect and has been since August 24, when it was approved by the President. Letters from the third assistant postmaster general and the assistant attorney general, which are before me, say that the law "is of penal nature" the department will not attempt to construe the act, which means that it will be enforced. The postoffice inspectors and the United States district attorneys here, agree that the law is now operative. Some of the larger papers, probably the American Newspaper Association, may ask for an injunction against the law's enforcement and make a test case. However that may be, the newspaper that does not obey the law, now, is taking all the risks of the lawbreaker. This law was put in as "a rider" in the general postoffice appropriation bill, and as the president cannot use the veto, except on an entire bill, it became a law. In all probability it was designed to trip up "Teddy's" campaign advertising, or some other equally individual case was its inspiration. It illustrates a growing tendency to inquisitorial control of everything. The newspapers and magazines, like a lot of other people are surprised to find themselves caught in nets they have helped to spread. Recently a number of magazines have been indicted by the government, and the patent inside concerns, and similar business, is under the ban of the Sherman Act. The newspapers can be sure they'll "get theirs," if the enthusiasm for minding everybody's business keeps up. Like a lot of other "interests" that have been attacked, they now act like victims innocent to them, but the law points their way now and a lot of political spite work will find a new way opened. It will be a good opportunity for solemn meditation by some of our brethren who have thought muck-raking jolly fun, and held everybody up to derision and suspicion with whom they did not agree.

A RAIL ROAD ADVERTISEMENT
Under the new postal law the paragraph to follow is an advertisement, for my client will pay for it. When you read it you'll wonder why it becomes so important to the government. It is of much more importance to the people of Wisconsin, for it indicates the growing improvement in freight facilities between this state and New York. The following paragraph from the Wall Street Journal has a double interest to Wisconsin, for the doings of the Erie's president always excite lively personal attention among his old time friends. The Journal, after remarking that the president of the Erie Railroad pays considerably less attention to last passenger train service than he does to freight service, "says" much of the Erie's present heavy freight business is due to the fact that freight trains must be gotten through New York to Chicago in 60 hours. The paper adds:

"Between Kent, Ohio and Meadville, Pa., the other day, the Erie 31-hour train passed 21 freights in a distance of 100 miles, all 1,500-ton revenue trains hauled by the most modern type of Mikado locomotives."

The Chicago and Northwestern's annual report, out this week, is more of a surprise than the St. Paul's. The latter has a new Pacific line that has not begun to earn money yet, but the Northwestern has been considering the railroad Gibraltar of the middle west. The Wall Street Journal puts it in the following stiff style:

"Only a cold-blooded investment holder of any railroad stock will be able to read the annual report of the Chicago and Northwestern without disturbing qualms. It is not simply that the road had a bad year and that its earnings on the total amount of stock outstanding fell to 7.51 per cent or barely enough to support the payment of 8 per cent on the preferred and 7 per cent on the common. Last year one of three bad years in a row. Though gross earnings were exceeded in only two previous years, the divisible surplus was the smallest for any year in the past six, not only in proportion to stock out standing, but in actual amount as well."

The average man may think it doesn't make any difference whether or not railroads are prosperous, but the sensible man reads of unsatisfactory railroad earnings with the assurance that general business had better be watched.

One of the unfortunate things about the present income tax discussion is, that it is mixed up with politics. Even the Tax Commission is acting as if it were engaged in a political propaganda and is giving out fragmentary statements about the workings of the law that amount to mis-information and befog the discussion. The Tax Commission is in worse condition than the political parties, for its reports have been anything but encouraging to the income tax idea, while all the parties except the Socialist, have encouraged the state income tax idea. Those who want the income tax maintained, encourage poor people to think the rich must pay this tax. That is the way much recent tax legislation has made friends. The real test of the situation is not who is the man assessed, but what do we need all these millions of new tax money for? If a man wants a house he don't pay the taxes directly, but the landlord adds them to the rent. So people pay the taxes on railroads and life insurance, on corporations generally, in the same way. You buy what they have to sell. The tax is part of its cost. No wealth is created, as "Tom" Reed, of Appleton, said to me the other day, "except from labor and land." I used to try hard to make "Tom" understand that, years ago, when he wanted me to think a protective tariff tax a blessing, and I am glad he has finally got it through his hair. If there's a tax that that is a blessing, it is because, under the new order of things, the principles of gravitation have been changed. Nobody needs go away from home to tell what is happening. Any tax payer in Wisconsin can find out by looking at his own tax receipts and at the increasing expenses of his town or city. This increase leaves far behind the increase in wealth, and it affects not the money raised by the taxation alone, but almost every town and city is borrowing up to its limit also. We are breeding extravagance, locally, and nationally. Everybody has a share of the responsibility and everybody will have to pay the piper. That is why I want to see the income tax law enforced. It will teach those who clamor for it that nobody else pays their taxes. A recent authority says we are already more heavily taxed, per capita, than any country in Europe.

Short Notes
One of the growing nuisances in this city is the using of the public streets by automobiles as stable-room. Men come down town in the morning, and their machines stand at the curb all day long. They are not supposed to stand on Wisconsin St. or Grand Ave., but they do, and on the cross streets they are practically shutting off customers in vehicles from access to the shops. There are merchants on the cross streets are losing business.

Judge J. E. Dodge tells another good story to illustrate the law's alarm in these days. A colored preacher called on him, told him his tale of a struggling southern church, and asked for a subscription. The Judge put on his most portentous supreme-bench air and said:

"Sir, do you know that you are committing a crime in asking me for money. I am a candidate for office?" The colored brother caught his breath and stammered: "I don't want no money no crime. But we shore need de money!" But he had to realize that a candidate for Wilson elector couldn't contribute. The political mix-up gets no clearer. Everybody is afraid of everybody else in both principal parties. This week the Bull Moose endorsed McGovern, something he didn't want any more, than they did, apparently. There's no

Republican candidate for president running in Wisconsin, that any candidate for state office, for congress, dates acknowledge. Democratic candidates base hopes on Republican kickers and as Uncle George Edwards, of La Crosse, used to say, "vice versa."

WILL CELEBRATE AT NEW GLARUS SUNDAY

"Killie" Celebration and Rifle Shoot
Will be Opened Sunday, Continuing Through Monday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New Glarus, Sept. 28.—The William Tell Rifle club will hold its annual shoot Sunday, Sept. 29. Good prizes will be awarded. Shooters from Monticello and Monroe will participate. The great prize shooters Messrs Jensen and Nabstad from Davenport, Ia., will also be present, they will bring along a silver cup valued at $25 which will be awarded to the King of the "Killie" shoot as it is termed.

The meaning of Killie celebration is the anniversary of the dedication of the church. The custom to celebrate this anniversary every year is common in Switzerland. On Sunday forenoon, a sermon to that effect will be preached in the Swiss Reformed church, and as soon as the religious part of the celebration is over, the sports will be taken up.

On Sunday afternoon a ball game between Oregon and New Glarus, on the ball grounds will take place, and on Monday afternoon Chicago Union Glans and New Glarus will play, on Monday evening a big dance will be held in both halls, which winds up the celebration.

J. B. Gardner of Monroe is here on business at present. Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Legler and family departed for Oshkosh yesterday morning, where they will be the guests of relatives there.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Kundert and family have returned home yesterday after visiting with Mr. Edwin Kundert and family at Whitewater.

Messrs. Therman Zentner and Melvin Becker have returned home from a business trip to Chicago.

Miss Margaret V. Stafford, assistant principal of the county training school of Monroe, is here on a visit to the schools.

Miss Lena Ming is visiting with her parents at Eau Claire.

Henry Stuessy, Sr., and son, Edwin, have returned home after spending a few days at Chicago.

Peculiar Scotch Mirage.
The easterly wind is believed to have been accountable for the curious mirage which was witnessed some days ago over the eastern area of the Fifth of Forth in Scotland. The tower and upper portion of the May Island lighthouse had the appearance of floating in mid-air, and the rocks looked as if they were surrounded by trees. The spectacle attracted a good deal of attention, and an attempt was even made to photograph it.

MANY DRIVEN FROM HOME.
Every year, in many parts of the country, thousands are driven from their homes by coughs and lung diseases. Friends and business are left behind for other climates, but this safe medicine, Throat and Lung better way—the way of multitudes—is to use Dr. King's New Discovery and cure yourself at home. Stay right there, with your friends, and take this safe medicine. Throat and lung troubles find quick relief and health returns. Its help in coughs, colds, grip, croup, whooping-cough and sore lungs make it a positive blessing. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Peoples' Drug Co.

Are You Going Forward Or Backward?
Are You Saving or Are You Running Behind?

It's to your best interest to consider this matter seriously. You cannot begin to go forward, financially until you learn to save your money and open a bank account at this bank, and this coupled with the three per cent interest that it will earn for you, will soon start you forward on the road to success.

Some people dislike to enter the doors of a bank. Why? Because they think their small business is too trifling for the banker to bother about. We invite such people to come in and use this bank. We are in business purposely to be bothered. Every man, woman or child should have a bank account of some size. One dollar will start an interest bearing account.

This is the only Real Savings Bank in town. No commercial accounts are carried. Your money is absolutely safeguarded by Real Estate mortgages.

PREPARING TO MOVE ALARMS APPARATUS

That Now in City Hall To Be Housed in Central Fire Station—Begin Work Next Week.

Chief of the Fire Department H. C. Ilne, is making preparations to move the fire alarm apparatus now housed in the city hall to the central fire station and intends to begin the work of removal on Thursday or Friday of next week. It will take about three days to make the transfer and get the alarm mechanism in proper working order, but it will not be out of commission for more than an hour. It will be operated temporarily with electric light current.

The alarm mechanism will be placed in a room by itself on the second floor of the fire station. The storage batteries will be in a separate room as the fumes generated are noxious to men and vitiate the air. There are two sets of batteries, 65 two-volt cells in each. One set is being charged while the other discharges. The batteries require close attention and are examined every night and every morning.

Twenty-four outside wires and twice as many interior wires will have to be moved in effecting the change. The wiring is extremely complicated and requires the utmost care and accuracy to prevent a derangement of the system. The concentration of all the fire alarm mechanism in the central fire station will insure its being given closer attention and reduce the possibility of derangement to the minimum.

W. A. Smith, Bridgeton, Ind., is telling his friends and neighbors of his return to health and strength by the use of Foley Kidney Pills, and he says he wants others to benefit also. "I was so crippled with rheumatism I could not dress without help, and had kidney trouble for years. I started using Foley Kidney Pills and now all my trouble has left me and I do not feel that I ever had rheumatism. I rest well all night and though 59 years old can now do the work of a man of 35 years. I would like to be the means of others getting benefit from Foley Kidney Pills."—Badger Drug Co.

Light the Farm at a Very Low Cost
DID YOU EVER THINK OF THE CONVENIENCE OF HAVING ELECTRICITY ON THE FARM?
You can use your engine during the day to run your separator or pump, in which case the lights will cost you nothing. There is no danger of explosion of gasoline or kerosene by this method. You can light barn or sheds from the house by merely turning a switch, placing you on a level with city folks in this respect. Here are the prices, with and without engine:

WITH ENGINE:
15 light plant ..... $250
30 light plant ..... $325
50 light plant ..... $410
WITHOUT ENGINE:
15 light ..... $210
30 light ..... $260
50 light ..... $346
Always plenty of light at any time without danger. On arriving home late in the evening. For early morning milking. In case of sickness when light is needed quickly you have it instantly. And it lowers your insurance rate.

Success Comes Nowadays Only To Those Who Are Trained

Training—education in business—is the keynote to big business success today. A generation ago men mastered business by long years of experience and gradual working up. A five dollar a week boy and girl became head of a department—after 30 or 40 years of hard work.

Today business can't wait. Things grow too quickly. Business demands trained heads now. YOU, young man, young woman, at this very time, no matter what position you may hold, have a chance to better your position quickly. Business demands a man WITH TRAINING—not a man to RECEIVE training.

TODAY'S EVANSVILLE NEWS

Evansville, Sept. 28.—Last night about one hundred and fifty friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Atkinson assembled at the Methodist church parlors, which were tastefully decorated in red, white and blue, at an informal farewell reception for our popular Y. M. C. A. secretary.

After the singing of several songs by the young people, H. O. Meyers gave an interesting talk on "How the people of Evansville looked at it." Professor E. Evans spoke from the standpoint of the High School students and Roy Myers from the standpoint of the church. Rev. Coon was spokesman for the boys and after a few well worded remarks presented Mr. Atkinson with a handsome gold signet ring bearing his initials and on the inside "From the Evansville Y. M. C. A., 1912" and Mrs. Atkinson with a nice solid silver spoon. Mr. Atkinson thanked all for their expressions of appreciation of his work during the past year and for the gift in remembrance of the occasion.

Mr. Cole, his successor also made several timely remarks after which light refreshments were served.

Although Mr. Atkinson has been with us but a year, during this time he has won the hearts of all the boys and their parents and has built out of what seemed an impossibility, the firm foundation for a thriving Y. M. C. A.

We are too fond of Mr. Atkinson to keep him from the larger field for him at Green Bay and all wishes are for the greatest success in his new work there.

In losing our Y. M. C. A. Secretary, however, we have been singularly fortunate in securing a man who is perfectly capable of carrying on the work of his predecessor and of whose success in Beloit we have heard. Mr. Cole and hope we may cooperate with him in his good work.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Atkinson left today for their new home in Green Bay.

Mrs. James Twilliger of Madison is visiting her niece and nephew Mr. and Mrs. Harry Loomis and also her sister Mrs. Lathrop.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wolfe, Jr., and Miss Ethel Cushman moved to Janesville Thursday.

Miss Irene Dunn of Janesville, is spending a few days with Miss Cora Harris of this city.

Mrs. Will Worthing of Magnolia was an Evansville visitor yesterday.

Elmer Bourbonban of Madison called on friends here yesterday.

Miss Carolyn Hatch left Friday night for Janesville, where she will visit relatives and friends over Sunday.

Misses Nina Park, Mame Meddle and Ada Curless attended a dance in Brooklyn Thursday night.

Miss Mame Meddle has resigned her position in the telephone office and leaves for her home in Brooklyn Monday. Miss Ethel Cushman, night operator, takes her place and Miss Iva Cushman becomes night operator in her sister's place.

Miss Ethel Hong left Friday night for Harbore where she will visit her parents over Sunday.

Miss Marjorie Wallace was a Madison visitor Saturday.

Miss Kent our popular Grange milliner was a passenger to Madison today.

Mr. and Mrs. Mayhew London returned to their home in Janesville after attending the W. C. T. U. convention and visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Peterson.

Alto Robert Hartley was a Janesville visitor yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Slawson went to Janesville today to prepare their house for occupancy.

Mrs. George Shaw went to Janesville today on business.

Word was received here Thursday night that Dean Fessenden of Clinton committed suicide and died at his home at about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Despondency over ill health caused the act. The deceased was a brother to Mrs. Henry Fellows and Mr. Al. Fessenden of this city and will be remembered by many people here. The same evening word was received of the death of Orrie Case of Belmont, Iowa, nephew of Henry Fellows of this city and son of Mark Case at one time proprietor of the Central House.

Mrs. Henry Fellows is in Clinton, called there by her brother's death.

Miss Tora Brunzell returned to night from Madison where she has spent several days.

Miss Helen Brunzell, principal of Fulton school was home over Sunday.

A. M. Van Wormer returned recently from a business trip to Barron, Wis.

Miss Anna Van Wormer was a Janesville caller today.

Ivan Fay is a seminary student. The school board has added a great deal to the exterior appearance of the Magee property recently purchased by them, by causing a new porch to be built and a new coat of paint put on.

The special class taught there by Miss Smith is getting along nicely and all are more than satisfied by the results during this short time. In every class there are always some pupils slower or faster than the others and it is not fair to the average pupils to keep them back for the rest or fair to the brilliant pupils to keep them behind for close. A special class is the only solution.

Edgerton News Notes. Mrs. Orson Thompson and daughter have returned from a week's visit with relatives in Genoa Junction and Beloit.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Springer returned yesterday from a visit with relatives in Michigan City, Ind., and Chicago.

Rev. J. Linnevald goes to Beloit today where on Sunday he will conduct the Choral concert given in connection with the meeting of the South-eastern Young People's Union, held in that city.

Sunday at the Churches. At the German Lutheran church will be held the annual missionary fest. Rev. Wangel of Hanover, Wis., and Rev. Schroth of Mayville, Wis., will be present to assist in the morning and afternoon services. Appropriate music will be rendered by the choir.

At the M. E. church there will be services in the morning and evening, conducted by Pastor North. Epworth League at 8:30 p. m.

At the Congregational church Rev. Schoenfeld will conduct services in the morning and evening.

At the Norwegian Lutheran church there will be services, in the morning conducted in English by Prof. Ringven of Albion.

WHAT WE NEVER FORGET according to science, are the things associated with our early home life, such as Bucklen's Arnica Salve, that mother or grandmother used to cure our burns, boils, scalds, sores, skin eruptions, cuts, sprains or bruises. Forty years of cures proves its merit. Unvalued for piles, corns or cold-sores. Only 25 cents at Peoples' Drug Co.

EDGERTON WOMAN IS FOUND DEAD IN BED

Mrs. Charles Weber, An Invalid for Several Years, Passes Away at Home Yesterday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Edgerton, Sept. 26.—Mrs. Charley Weber was found dead at the family home in the third ward yesterday afternoon about 12:30 o'clock. The discovery was made by the two daughters on returning from school for the noon hour. Apparently as well as usual she lay in bed during the day, taking but little nourishment, refusing also to have a physician called. An invalid for the past five or six years, death no doubt came as a welcome relief.

Her maiden name was Senia Nathan. Born in the vicinity of Christiana, Norway, she came to this country when eighteen years of age, taking up her home in Cambridge for several years. Had she lived until December next she would be forty-seven years of age.

On November 30, 1890, she was united in marriage to Charley Weber in this city where they have resided since. Besides the husband two daughters, Edith and Alice, aged respectively twelve and eight years, survive. Her parents and one sister in Norway and one brother in Deerfield also survive.

Brief funeral services will be held Sunday morning at ten o'clock at the late home and the remains will be taken to Cambridge for burial. A kind and loving wife and mother and a good friend and neighbor she will be greatly missed.

Edgerton News Notes. Mrs. Orson Thompson and daughter have returned from a week's visit with relatives in Genoa Junction and Beloit.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Springer returned yesterday from a visit with relatives in Michigan City, Ind., and Chicago.

Rev. J. Linnevald goes to Beloit today where on Sunday he will conduct the Choral concert given in connection with the meeting of the South-eastern Young People's Union, held in that city.

Sunday at the Churches. At the German Lutheran church will be held the annual missionary fest. Rev. Wangel of Hanover, Wis., and Rev. Schroth of Mayville, Wis., will be present to assist in the morning and afternoon services. Appropriate music will be rendered by the choir.

At the M. E. church there will be services in the morning and evening, conducted by Pastor North. Epworth League at 8:30 p. m.

At the Congregational church Rev. Schoenfeld will conduct services in the morning and evening.

At the Norwegian Lutheran church there will be services, in the morning conducted in English by Prof. Ringven of Albion.

1913 Rambler Cross Country With UNIT GASOLINE and ELECTRIC MOTOR $1700

2. Starting Button. When pressed the electric motor starts the gasoline engine. 3. Switch. With the gasoline engine running, and the starting button released, this switch automatically changes the electric motor into an electric generator for charging the storage battery. 5. Regulator. Automatically makes rate of charging storage battery same at any engine speed.

The Cross Country unit gasoline and electric motor showing location of all parts

HERE is a car destined for leadership in 1913. The new unit gasoline and electric motor is bound to give it first place. The 1912 Cross Country was a popular success. Big sales prove that. One hundred and five per cent—our increase for the year—is a record.

Gasoline and Electric Motor

Think what this new motor means. It combines two widely used and thoroughly known power principles in the perfected Cross Country gasoline engine the other in the commonly used electric motor generator. Now you don't have to get out of your car to start or to light the lamps. Press a button—you start. Press another—you light the lamps. Read the explanation. Then see this new motor. The idea is so simple—the results so pleasing—you will wonder why it has not been done before.

Noiseless and Simple

The parts forming the electric motor generator take the place of the fly wheel. It saves weight, bearings, chains, gears, complicated wiring and operates as silently as any electric motor.

Ten Inch Upholstery

The Cross country in appearance had no equal. In comfort we thought we had reached the limit—but now we have added ten inch upholstery. Of power it has sufficient for every emergency. It's so flexible you can travel on high gear no faster than a man usually walks, or fifty miles an hour. No steering but to touch the wheel. It guides so easily you are conscious of no effort. Experienced motorists instantly appreciate this advantage.

10,000 Mile Guarantee

Of its reliability there can be no question, vouched for by our ten thousand mile guarantee.

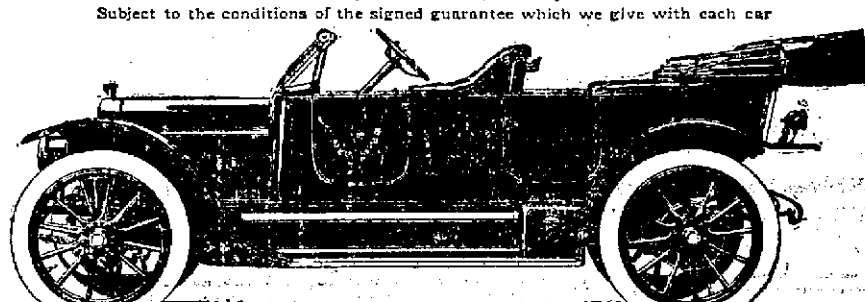

Jeffery service is a reality. It has been gradually perfected by twelve years of actual field work and is now backed by an organization of more than four hundred dealers and branches. One of them is probably near to you. We make ninety-six per cent of our parts and now have one-half million dollars invested in duplicate parts for the benefit of owners. Ask your banker or consult Dun and Bradstreet as to the responsibility of this company.

Will You Be A Slave To The Medicine Bottle Longer

THERE IS A WAY OUT. HUNDREDS OF SICK AND AILING ONES WHO HAD BEEN DRAGGING OUT A MISERABLE, WEARY EXISTENCE HAVE BEEN RESTORED TO HEALTH BY CHIROPRACTIC ADJUSTMENTS—NO MEDICINE—NO CUTTING—NO MYSTERY—SIMPLY COMMON SENSE—THAT'S ALL.

Chiropractic, the science to which I devote myself, is not a medical treatment. It is a scientific knowledge of the spine and nervous system. If one has a disease it is simply a manifestation of a cause and the cause may be located in the spinal column. All disease, except such as is directly traced to traumatic injury, is due to a pinching of the nerves emerging or entering between the vertebrae of the spinal column, causing a lack of nerve force in the organ or organs directly affected, and resulting in the loss of their usual functions, causing disease. I know the anatomy of the spine so thoroughly that I have no difficulty in locating the trouble and correcting it. Normal functions are restored and the diseased condition disappears—disease cannot in fact, then exist in a harmoniously working mechanism of the human body.

For years it has been the claim of many advanced thinkers, among whom are included leading members of the medical profession, that drugless healing would eventually become the accepted theory in curative methods. Chiropractic is the rational method of drugless removal of disease, and that fact can be demonstrated to the satisfaction of any sufferer who will make a practical test of it in his own case.

Many sufferers who have been made well, gladly tell of their experiences. Here's one instance.

To Whom It May Concern: I am 26 years of age. I suffered nine years ago with a tumor on my face, just in front of the ear. Upon consulting a prominent physician of Milwaukee I was told that I would have to be operated upon as it was incurable, and that by an operation I would be freed from all my trouble, and was operated on three different times in a year and a half, and this same Doctor said that if I would follow it up with the X-Ray treatment I would come out all right. So when I came to Beloit I took X-Ray treatment here three times a week for seven months. The left side of my face became paralyzed so that I could not move it and my left eye remained open day and night. Then he told me that the muscles of my face were weak and that I would have to wear glasses and that they would relieve them. After spending about $260 for all this guesswork, I was worse off than before I started.

I was advised by friends to try Chiropractic adjustments, and by taking their advice I went and saw J. N. Imlay and I am glad that I did for I am now a well woman—not only of the paralyzed condition of my face but of all my other troubles that, most women are subject to. Now this testimonial is not given alone as a financial gain, for J. N. Imlay, but for suffering humanity's sake as well: If you suffering women and men would only read and quit doing with medicine and submitting yourselves to those unnecessary operations and go to the Chiropractor and take Chiropractic adjustments and have the cause of your disease removed, your disease would disappear and you would get well and feel like a human ought to feel. While taking Chiropractic adjustments I witnessed cases of all kinds of disease get well under J. N. Imlay's care. Hoping others will gain from my experience, I am, MRS. O. PETERSON, 741 Eight St., Beloit, Wis.

Study The Picture Here And See What Causes Disease

The left half of the illustration represents the trunk, branches and fruit of a tree. The trunk corresponds to the spinal cord, the branches to the nerves and the fruit to the organs of the body as shown in the right half of the picture. Pliers are represented as pinching a limb, also the nerves which convey the nerve force to the stomach, the results are immature, worthless fruit, and a diseased stomach. In a human body the openings between the spinal bones are the pinchers. The vertebrae are wrenched, displaced, closing up the openings through which the nerves pass. The Chiropractor asserts that this pressure causes 95 per cent of all diseases. The leaves and fruit are at the twig end of the limbs. The organs of the body are at the end of the nerves. Disturbed functions in any branch, or spinal nerve, would have shown similar results in any fruit or vital organs.

In a Boarding House.

HELEN left the dining room of her boarding house and hurried upstairs to her room.

"My! but I have a bunch of work to do this evening," she thought as she lit the gas in her room. "I must wash out a guimpe, and my white gloves. And I've my white shoes to clean, and my white handbag really needs to be freshened. And there's a collar to bone. And I simply must write mother tonight. She'll be thinking I'm sick or something, and worrying herself to death. My letter's two days late now. I've got half a day's work and only two hours to do it in."

She began hurriedly to get out the guimpe and gloves, when rat-a-tat-tat came a knock on the door.

She muttered an imprecation as she opened it.

"Oh, good evening, Helen dear. I thought I heard you moving around, and so I just concluded to come in for a little while." And in marched the woman from the next room.

"You don't know how I just love to hear you stirring about," she continued, as she settled herself in the most comfortable chair. "I get so lonely all day here by myself. And it's so pleasant to run in here for a little chat with you in the evening. Don't you ever get lonely?"

"I don't have time to," replied Helen. "You won't mind if I bore my collar?"

"Oh dear no. Go right ahead. It must be so nice to have something to do. The trouble with me is that I have nothing to do."

"Goodness!" exclaimed Helen. "Seems to me there's plenty to be done."

"But what could I do?" plaintively asked the other.

"I don't know," replied Helen, thinking of her guimpe and gloves and shoes and bag and letter.

"I don't know either. But at any rate, I say to myself, I can talk to Helen a little while in the evening so she won't be lonesome like I am all day."

"It's very kind," murmured Helen faintly.

"Oh, not at all. I sometimes think maybe my loneliness is just to make me sympathize with others, and help keep them from being lonely."

"I suppose," said Helen, "most people do look at things from their own point of view. They never do see how other people might feel about it."

"That's it exactly," replied the other complacently.

"Now I should never think about people being lonely," went on Helen. "I should probably think they would be glad to be left to themselves once in a while."

"Don't you believe it," said the other emphatically. "It's terrible to be lonesome. I hope you never will be."

"I don't believe I ever will be," replied Helen sadly.

And at eleven o'clock, as the other left, Helen shook her fist at the retreating figure and thought of the soiled guimpe and soiled gloves and soiled shoes she would have to wear next day, and of the mother in a distant town looking for the letter that wouldn't come.

CONCENTRATION IN CLOTHES.

A YOUNG friend of mine has recently decided to have about half as many clothes as she now has.

No, she has never been a Flora McFlinsey. Nor is she doing this because she wants to give up the vanities of the world. She has simply come to the conclusion that she will get more out of her clothes if she concentrates.

This is the way she puts it: "I have always had a lot of clothes, none of them very expensive and not more than half of them especially becoming. Now I don't really need so many and I know I'd enjoy them more if I had fewer and put more thought and money into each dress."

Last year I had seven or eight dresses for the summer, and there were only three I really liked, and I wore them practically all the time. Next year I'm not going to have more than three or four but they are all going to be just right. Of course, I'll have to wear them over and over again but I know I'll be better off."

Don't you think this young person has come to a wise decision?

I do.

Just about three but of every four women have too many clothes. And by too many clothes, I mean just the condition this girl describes—they have more clothes than they can have and have them right.

One of the best dressed women I know among women of moderate incomes has attained this desirable distinction by concentrating in this way. She isn't one of the women whose ambition is to appear in a different gown at every function. On the contrary she has very few clothes but what she has are always perfect.

"I might have twice as many gowns," she said to me once, "if I would be content with what most women in my acquaintance are satisfied with. But the way I've thought it out is this—I believe that anyone would rather see me again and again in a thoroughly becoming and attractive gown than to see me in two or three different dresses that weren't any of them particularly attractive. Of course, I'd rather have a lot of lovely gowns, but since, with my income, that isn't possible, I'd rather have a few distinctive things than a lot of nondescript ones."

Now every woman of average income has this choice between quantity and quality to make.

We all want both, but if we can't have them, we must make up our minds which is better.

Which have you chosen?

Heart and Home Problems

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—(1)—How can I reduce my stomach? (2)—I am a poor workingwoman and expect to marry this winter. What would be a nice cheap dress? (3)—I have no home. Where would be the nicest and best place to get married?

ANXIOUS.

(1)—the occupation you speak of may cause the fat stomach. You can reduce your entire size by diet and exercise. Raise your arms high above your head, then bend slowly forward at the waist, and try to touch your toes with the tips of your fingers. Then swing slowly up and backward as far as possible.

You won't succeed at first, but practice will make perfect. Do it very easily and slowly in the beginning, so it won't hurt you. Also, spread your arms straight out at the sides, stand firmly and swing your body around from the hips only. Always stand with your chest well thrown out, our chin high, and your stomach in.

(2)—Gray cotton voile would be pretty and cheap. (3)—In the church or minister's study, unless you have a friend who will loan her home for the happy occasion.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—Who pays for the bouquets for the maid-of-honor and bridesmaids? What is the expense of the groom?

BROWN EYES.

The bride's parents pay for everything connected with the wedding. The groom furnishes the carriage for himself and best man, buys the ring, pays the minister's fee, and usually buys the bride's bouquet. If he wishes to be quite gallant, he buys the bouquets for the bride's attendants also, but it is not required. The moment he is married, however, he assumes every expense connected with his wife.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I have been married eleven years, have three boys, aged two, six and eight years. Have kept all my marriage vows but find my husband's love untrue to me. He is now going with a married woman separated from her husband. He is thirty-seven. I am twenty-seven. He says if I go to court about it he will skip and do nothing for the children. Do you think I could keep a rooming house and support my boys?

D. H.

If you want a divorce, the court will compel him to help toward the support of the children. He won't be able to "skip" as easily as he thinks. But if there is any way of making him see his duty to you and the babies, don't try to get a divorce or earn money. Let him understand that you look to him to support you while you are attending to your duties as wife and mother, and make your home the pleasantest spot on earth.

You might possibly make ends meet keeping a rooming house, but it's an uncertain way of making a living.

Have you asked the woman to send your husband away, so that he may be a good father to his children?

He is doing a despicable thing, but will he give up his job to his wife and be a decent man again. Some men have to go through that phase before they appreciate the good things they have.

HELPFUL HINTS.

Core apples without peeling, slice in rather thick slices and fry in hot fat, turning carefully to keep the shape unbroken. Season with a sprinkling of salt and sugar and place around the platter of pork chops.

Another pretty and appetizing accompaniment to pork chops or roasts are potato nests, buttered and browned in the oven and filled with small creamed onions.

Serve beefsteak, for a change, well buttered and sprinkled generously with parsley.

French zinc thinned with boiled oil to make it of the right consistency is a much cheaper white paint than lead paint. Has a gloss and goes farther.

Try a peanut stuffing in your roast duck. Take three-fourths of a cup of cracker crumbs, half a cup of peanuts and half a cup of thick cream, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, salt, cayenne and onion juice to taste.

Pear Honey.—Grate four medium-sized pears, add a pint of water and two pounds of sugar. Boil until the mixture drops from the spoon like honey. Pour into glasses and seal.

This is delicious on griddle cakes or makes a fine filling to add to boiled frosting and use on cake.

Lemon and salt makes a fine cleaner for brass and copper.

A mixture of chloride of lime and baking soda rubbed into the stains made by hard water on the enamel in the bathroom will remove obstinate stains.

A stick with a swab should be used as it is too strong a substance to put the hands in.

Use brass tacks to fasten the sheet on the ironing board, as they are more easily removed.

A pretty and rather unusual salad is this: Sliced oranges with a spoonful of sour cream, sweetened with a little sugar on each slice. A half cup of sour cream to two tablespoonfuls of sugar.

THE TWO-MEAL PLAN.

"How many meals do you take in the day, and at what hours?" a reader asks. I recommend nothing that I do not take the benefit of for myself. I have explained why it is better for the average adult to eat twice a day than three or four times. All authorities agree that eating between meals is injurious, because the stomach does not have an opportunity to rest or to fully dispose of one meal before another is taken. For the same reason the best results are obtained when the meals are further apart than four hours. Therefore the two-meal-a-day plan, advocated by many health reformers and now practiced by thousands who testify to the improvement in health and working capacity resulting from it, is much better than the ordinary practice. I have followed the two-meal plan for 12 years with good results. I can recommend this system to the average man or woman, under ordinary conditions. The best time for the two meals is, ten and five. This divides the day best, but when this is not possible twelve and six will do. I have lived for weeks at a time on one meal a day, eating at twelve, noon. Even if one eats as much or more in two meals than in three, there is an advantage in the two-meal plan.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS
by
Henrietta D. Grauel

WHEN Ferdinand Cortez came to Mexico in search of gold, the first discovery he made was chocolate.

The monks at once adopted the new beverage, and drank it to such excess that a ban was pronounced against it and for a while it was considered a wicked luxury.

The Mexicans prepared the beverage with milk as we do now, but added cinnamon for flavor, or a vanilla bean was cooked with it. These same flavors are added by modern cooks with the best of success.

The nutritious quality of cocoa or chocolate depends entirely upon the amount of oil it contains; the first is not so rich as the latter and is preferred by some persons for that reason, but it has not the fine, full flavor of chocolate.

The ladies of France became so excessively fond of the drink that they had it brought to them in church, where it served to give them strength and patience to withstand the long sermons. At last the bishops were persuaded to pass in their discourse for a refreshing cup and gradually the ban of the church was lifted from it.

The gold that came from Peru and the new world was soon squandered by Spanish grandees, but the chocolate is still to be found in abundance in the peninsula; it is the drink that always appears when courtesy requires that refreshments should be served.

It surpasses all other beverages in point of nutrition, as its name, theobroma, food of the gods, indicates; but like many fine foods, it often suffers in the cooking.

Napoleon Bonaparte's breakfast was incomplete without chocolate, and the chocolate mill is his invention. It is a round stick that passes through the lid of a chocolate pot; on the end of it is a wheel or cap that is rubbed between the palms of the hands so that the chocolate in the pot is milled or stirred while cooking so no sediment will form.

Chocolate must never be allowed to boil, for this extracts the vegetable oil and ruins the flavor.

The chocolate mill is seldom seen now except in antique shops, but good cooks everywhere whisk the chocolate while it is cooking with an egg beater.

The best way to make chocolate is to grate a sufficient quantity and mix it with hot water, add sugar to taste and simmer it gently for five minutes. Heat the milk in another vessel and then pour all together, beating briskly until the mixture is foamy; flavor and serve with beaten white of egg or whipped cream.

Cocoa, unlike chocolate, is improved by boiling. A teaspoonful is measured for each cup; mix with hot water, sweeten and boil gently until the cocoa is dissolved. Pour in the heated milk and serve immediately. Two-thirds milk and one-third water gives a more satisfactory beverage than all milk.

Chocolate is more expensive than cocoa but more nourishing; either one is a wholesome beverage, because it is both food and drink that is beneficial to the sick, the weak and the well.

A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS
by
Edna K. Woolley

the summer half-holiday are the only days when people have time to look at property.

While one theoretically sides with the ministers in an effort to keep Sunday clean of all business matters, one must agree that the real estate men are not wholly to blame for breaking the Sabbath.

The real estate man doesn't like to work Sundays any more than the ministers want him to. But he not only has to put in Sundays at hard labor—I defy anybody to say that it is a cinch to sell real estate—but he must give up his evenings, also, to the same kind of work.

He can't invade a busy man's office or take up a man's time in shop or factory to talk real estate. Moreover, the purchaser himself usually requires this, as the purchase must be talked over with the wife.

It may be argued that the average man who wants to buy a home can take some time from his work for such an important matter. But the man who wants to buy a home needs every cent he can earn, and certainly isn't going to do anything to jeopardize his job when he knows that he must hold on to it all the tighter now that he'll have taxes and interest to pay in addition to monthly installments "just like rent." So he takes the only square time he has—which is Sunday—to look over the propositions offered him. If the ministers will get him more spare time during the week he will gladly avail himself of it, and the real estate agent may have a chance to go to church himself.

Regular Habits.

It is a good plan to have a regular time for reading. One accomplishes so much more in this way, and besides establishes a kind of intellectual habit that is a good thing in itself. In an hour, or even half an hour given regularly each day to reading, a great deal may be accomplished. Do not confine yourself to serious books. Alternate light with heavy reading, and do not attempt heavy reading when you are tired. Do not read merely to be amused. Treat your books as friend. Do not follow blindly the teachings of any book.

THEY'LL WEAR LAST YEAR'S HATS.

When a man wants to buy anything extra, he simply takes the money and spends it for the thing desired. If he hasn't the money handy, he goes out and earns the sum sufficient.

But when a woman wants to spend a little extra money, there is only one way for her to get the money, as a rule. I am talking of the average married woman, of course—she who isn't supposed to have an occupation and who is "supported" to the extent that she never has any funds that she can really call her own. So, when this average woman feels a call for extra money, she simply cuts down on some necessary or slices off a little from several necessities, and manages to get the sum needed. She may "feed" the family on croquettes and bread pudding for a while, or she may go without a new dress, or she may do her own washing, or in some way "save" where a man will go forth and earn more.

One of the latest evidences of woman's saving propensity is furnished by the Women's Improvement association of South Pasadena, Cal.

The women want a club house. Not satisfied with wanting it, they have decided to have it. Therefore each member of the association has pledged herself to go without a new fall hat, and to donate what she would ordinarily spend for a hat to the club house fund. There are 200 members, and it is calculated that the average cost of a hat would be not less than $10. Therefore it is hoped that something like $2,000 will be realized through this means.

BREAKING THE SABBATH.

The ministers are trying to keep the real estate men from showing property on Sundays—at least, on Sunday mornings.

The real estate men retort that Sundays and Saturday afternoons during the summer half-holiday are the only days when people have time to look at property.

While one theoretically sides with the ministers in an effort to keep Sunday clean of all business matters, one must agree that the real estate men are not wholly to blame for breaking the Sabbath.

The real estate man doesn't like to work Sundays any more than the ministers want him to. But he not only has to put in Sundays at hard labor—I defy anybody to say that it is a cinch to sell real estate—but he must give up his evenings, also, to the same kind of work.

He can't invade a busy man's office or take up a man's time in shop or factory to talk real estate. Moreover, the purchaser himself usually requires this, as the purchase must be talked over with the wife.

It may be argued that the average man who wants to buy a home can take some time from his work for such an important matter. But the man who wants to buy a home needs every cent he can earn, and certainly isn't going to do anything to jeopardize his job when he knows that he must hold on to it all the tighter now that he'll have taxes and interest to pay in addition to monthly installments "just like rent." So he takes the only square time he has—which is Sunday—to look over the propositions offered him. If the ministers will get him more spare time during the week he will gladly avail himself of it, and the real estate agent may have a chance to go to church himself.

Regular Habits.

It is a good plan to have a regular time for reading. One accomplishes so much more in this way, and besides establishes a kind of intellectual habit that is a good thing in itself. In an hour, or even half an hour given regularly each day to reading, a great deal may be accomplished. Do not confine yourself to serious books. Alternate light with heavy reading, and do not attempt heavy reading when you are tired. Do not read merely to be amused. Treat your books as friend. Do not follow blindly the teachings of any book.

BURNED AND ITCHED BADLY

Burn Was Sore and Ulcerated, All Red and Inflamed. Suffered Terribly. Could Not Sleep for Two Weeks. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Arm Healed Nicely.

539 Lincoln Park Blvd., Chicago, Ill.—“A year ago I received a very severe burn on my left arm. I caught cold in it and it was all sore and ulcerated.

The sore was as large as a silver dollar. It was all red and inflamed and had pus running out of it. I suffered terribly from burning pain; could not sleep for two weeks it burned and itched so badly. I applied Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The sore was as large as a silver dollar. It was all red and inflamed and had pus running out of it. I suffered terribly from burning pain; could not sleep for two weeks it burned and itched so badly. I applied Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

I saved my drugstore recommended as his own, but got no relief. I then commenced using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I bathed the burned parts with Cuticura Soap and applied the Cuticura Ointment on a linen bandage. I got relief from the first and my arm healed nicely. I was soon able to be at work again. Had I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment at first I would have avoided loss of suffering.”

(Signed) Harry Junko, Mar. 9, 1912. Sure Cure for Smallpox. The worst case of smallpox can be cured in four days simply by the use of cream of tartar, one ounce dissolved in a pint of water; drink at intervals, is a never failing remedy. It has cured many, and seldom leaving a mark and avoids tedious lingering.

Concerning Dr. Goddard

DR. GODDARD.

The above is a picture of Wisconsin's leading Specialist who treats Chronic Diseases, without resorting to Surgery or the knife.

For many years past, in certain troubles such as Rupture, Chronic Appendicitis, Gall Stones, Gleet, and many Diseases peculiar to Women, it was thought necessary to resort to Surgery.

But in the past few years such brilliant men in the profession as Dr. Mechnikoff of Paris, the leading physician of the world today, Dr. McEwen, Professor of Medicine at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, Sir Henry Burdette of England, and Dr. Page of Boston, Mass., not to mention many others of great prominence, have become firmly convinced and have proven that many of these cases can be more successfully, better and more safely cured by modern treatment than by the knife.

And it is along these same advanced lines that Dr. Goddard has had his remarkable success in treating Chronic Diseases without operation.

The Doctor came to Janesville once every four weeks and freely grants consultation to all who may call on him at the Myers Hotel.

He comes to us highly recommended, and has had many of our people as his patients whom he has cured after they had tried many other physicians without relief. In talking with the writer recently the Doctor said: “The tendency among the medical profession in the past has been to put the knife into everybody on the slightest pretext, but with the great advancements that have been made in the Science of Medicine in the last few years, many of the broad minded surgeons have seen the errors of their ways, with the result that they are not resorting to Surgical operations in one quarter the cases that they formerly did. I can truthfully say, and can prove it that 80% of the so called cases of Chronic Appendicitis that have been submitted to operations in the past could have been cured much better by our modern methods of treatment, thus saving the patient all the suffering and danger, not to mention the expense that accompanies surgical operations. I have proven the truth of this statement right here in your community and I should like to show you scores of letters, from grateful patients whom I cured to prove it to you also.”

The Doctor has lately written a little book that is intensely interesting entitled, “Modern Methods of treating Chronic Diseases without Surgical Operation,” which he will gladly send to anyone absolutely free of charge on request.

Anyone suffering from any Chronic condition especially if it has failed to respond to the ordinary treatment should certainly avail themselves of the opportunity to consult Dr. Goddard on his next visit to Janesville, on Tuesday, October 8th, at the Myers Hotel or write to him at his permanent address 121 Wisconsin St., Milwaukee, Wis. Send for his little book anyway. It will greatly interest you.

TRAINING SCHOOL NOTES.

Principal Lovth has visited county training schools this week near Edgerton and Brodhead, and also in the town of Avon.

Miss Jacobson inspected this week the work done in the county schools taught by the Misses Juliette Finnane, Irene Sands, Jennie Haugen, and Alice Wilder, all graduates of the training school.

Declamations were given by Mary Madden, Nellie Mayo and Mamie McKee on Wednesday. Frances McCabe and Margaret McCarthy reported on current events. Anna Forton acted as the critic. The quotations were from Longfellow. A good program.

Miss Florence McKinnon did some typewriting in the office, last Saturday for the school.

Country teachers should make it a point to thoroughly ventilate their school rooms at all intermissions. The air in all schools soon become contaminated and it is a source of danger to teacher and children.

A fine new Johnston map of the United States has been added to our list of appliances.

Miss Mabel Francis, one of our seniors, accompanied Miss Jacobson on her tour of inspection Thursday.

The training school girls took charge of classes during the time when the instructors have been out instructing the work of our graduates. This practice has been done conscientiously and well in nearly every instance.

State law requires that all training schools give instruction in physical culture, and we are doing this kind of work regularly in our school.

The training school students board and room all day from one-half block to twenty blocks from the Jefferson building. The average distance is about five blocks.

Miss Dora Hayland who attended the training school last year is now teaching in Nebraska.

Miss Irene Decker is unable to attend school this semester on account of her mother's illness. Miss Decker hopes to enter the school after the holidays.

One thing need not be tolerated in country schools any longer, and that is text books dilapidated almost beyond recognition. Such books are demoralizing and should be burned up. Each country teacher needs a desk copy of her own, in good condition, which she can use in preparing lessons.

The following students attended the home-coming at Milton on Wednesday: Mary Cullen, Margaret Vickerman, and Harriet Connors.

Our principal is sending out several letters to country school teachers recommending textbooks and giving suggestions on better ways of doing the work. This help is given mostly to the training school graduates, as Supt. Antidell gives helpful information and advice to all of the teachers in his territory, either personally or by circular letter.

Missouri State Fair Opens. Sedalia, Mo., Sept. 28.—The enormous fruit crop which Missouri is gathering this year is illustrated as one of the most striking features of the annual state fair, which had its formal opening here today. The horticultural and agricultural exhibits are the best on record. The Ozarks, the home of the “big red apple,” have for competitors the orchards of northern, eastern and western Missouri. The display of hedges and live stock is also above the average.

London, Sept. 20.—Whitelaw Reid, the American ambassador, and Mrs. Reid sailed today for New York. The ambassador expects to remain in the United States until after the national election in November.

FEEL GREAT! LIVER AND BOWEL'S RIGHT, STOMACH SWEET, HEAD CLEAR—“CASCARETS”

Turn the rascals out—the headache, biliousness, constipation, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out with Cascarets.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets soothe and regulate your stomach; remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and that misery-making gas; take the excess bile from your liver and carry off the decomposed waste matter and constipation poison from the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your head clear, stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular and make you feel bully and cheerful for months. Don't forget the children.

10 Cents. Never gripe or sicken.

“CASCARETS WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP.”

BROTHERHOOD PLANS AUTOMOBILE PICNIC

Men's Organization of Congregational Church to Open Season's Meetings in Novel Manner

An automobile picnic to be held at noon-day, Friday, October 6 will open the meetings of the Brotherhood of the Congregational church for the season of 1912-1913. Automobiles will be provided for all members who desire to attend and P. S. Baines, president of the Brotherhood requests those who can give the use of their machines to inform him. Members have been requested to bring their wives and will be expected to provide their own lunches. Coffee will be made at the picnic grounds. Mid-day has been chosen as the time in order to avoid the coginess of the late afternoon experienced at this time of the year.

WHEN W. Aldrich retired from the United States senate, in order to collect his thoughts and cool his fevered brow, which had become considerably hot up over passing events, he left a large, pink blazer in that body which has been filled by anything except roll calls and parts of speech.

For Nelson W. was not merely a cog; he was the entire performance. Far be it from us to suggest that Nelson W. was a boss. Compared to him, the average political boss would look like a penny-ante game in the Waldorf-Astoria. No Nelson W. had a dorf. His system was to learn more about a piece of pending legislation or a pending piece of legislation, whichever you prefer, than anybody else in congress knew, and then crush the opposition with cold facts and the party whip. Just before a piece of legislation began to pend, Nelson W. would retire to his study and read all that had been said about it the last time it pended. He burned the midnight oil at so much a kilowatt while many of his colleagues were struggling to get past with a split flush.

It got so that whenever the senator from Rhode Island arose to refute somebody, he became a 39 to 1 shot. He was known as the greatest refuter in Congress until one day Senator J. P. Doliver of Iowa got up and exploded some of Rhode Island's choicest views concerning the wool tariff. From that day to this when ever Nelson W. meets a sleep, he calls for a coat-towel.

Alice Gonn telling the senate how when where and why it should vote on any given proposition, Nelson W. has made one of the best illustrations we have had in recent years. Nobody visited Washington without changing to see his hoofs and horns. When Nelson W. and Alice Gonn cannot happen to get together, which they very seldom did, for the looks of the thing, people claimed that they drew off more brimstone than a match factory.

Senator Aldrich retired just in time to avoid being impaled by the bull moose or trampled on by the elephant. He is now a plain rural citizen and can walk down town without having anxious mothers call their offspring in from the streets. Meanwhile, the senate has been trying to get somewhere without any head, although several are in training.

WEST CENTER.

West Center, Sept. 28.—Geo. Pepper and Wm. Harnack went to Janesville on business on Thursday of last week. They went via Leyden and returned the same way.

Mrs. V. S. Harnack and son Charles spent Sunday afternoon with the former's son, Louis and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Harnack and Hans Harnack and family took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. August Somov.

Herman Zielke and B. W. Snyder are filling their silos today.

Mrs. Geo. Pepper spent Friday with her niece, Mrs. Wm. Adea at Leyden.

Herrman Natz and Herman Zielke have caught over 20 hogs this fall with cholera.

There was a heavy frost Thursday night, as there is quite a lot of tobacco in the field, considerable damage was done. Corn was also quite badly frozen.

Chas. Hawk writes from North Dakota, that they are having very wet weather there and thousands of acres of wheat are still in the shock.

F. P. Smiley came out from Janesville in his auto Tuesday evening and stayed over night at the home of his sister, Mrs. W. O. Howell.

HERO OF HAYMARKET RIOT PASSES AWAY

“Tom” Birmingham, Model For Commemorative Statue Dead—Has Uncle And Cousins Living Here.

“Tom” Birmingham, one of the police heroes of the Haymarket riots and model for the statue erected on the scene of the bomb outrage is dead in Chicago. He died penniless and the other members of the police force have started a movement to bury the body with honors. At the time of the historic riot in 1886 Birmingham was known as the handsomest man on the police force, and this together with his acts of bravery during the exciting moments after the explosion led to his being selected to pose for the statue.

Two police captains were among those who came forward with words of praise for the veteran. They were Captain Frank Tyrell and Captain P. J. Gibbons.

“When he joined the police force ‘Tom’ didn’t drink. He didn’t smoke and rarely did anyone even hear an oath or a profane word pass his lips,” said Captain Tyrell.

In the fighting that ensued after the deadly bomb exploded in the midst of the marching policemen “Tom” Birmingham was conspicuous for his bravery. Tearing over the heads of many of his comrades, he fought like a tiger and, strangely enough, escaped with scarcely a scratch.

Then came the monument and next came the World's Fair, and the combination didn't do Birmingham any good.

Thousands of people who came to Chicago during the World's Fair wished to see the Haymarket monument and hear the story, and “Tom” Birmingham was detailed to escort hundreds of them.

Also hundreds of them wished to buy a drink for the handsome big policeman and gradually “Tom” became accustomed to taking a drink.

That's about all there is to tell, for the splendid big policeman died penniless.

“Draw the mantle of charity over his shortcomings,” said Captain Gibbons. “He was a good man and a brave man, so let's forget that he was a bit foolish at times.”

Birmingham has several relatives living in this city and was a son of Edward Birmingham, who lived here years ago. An uncle, Thomas Birmingham, lives at 543 South Jackson street, and Michael, George, and Thomas Birmingham, Jr., of this city, are his cousins. He leaves a wife and two children, and a brother, Edward Birmingham, in Chicago, and his stepmother and a half-sister live in De Kalb.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

No great good fortune awaits you this year, so do not undertake risky enterprises. To take good care of yourself and make a steady effort to accomplish something will be the best plan.

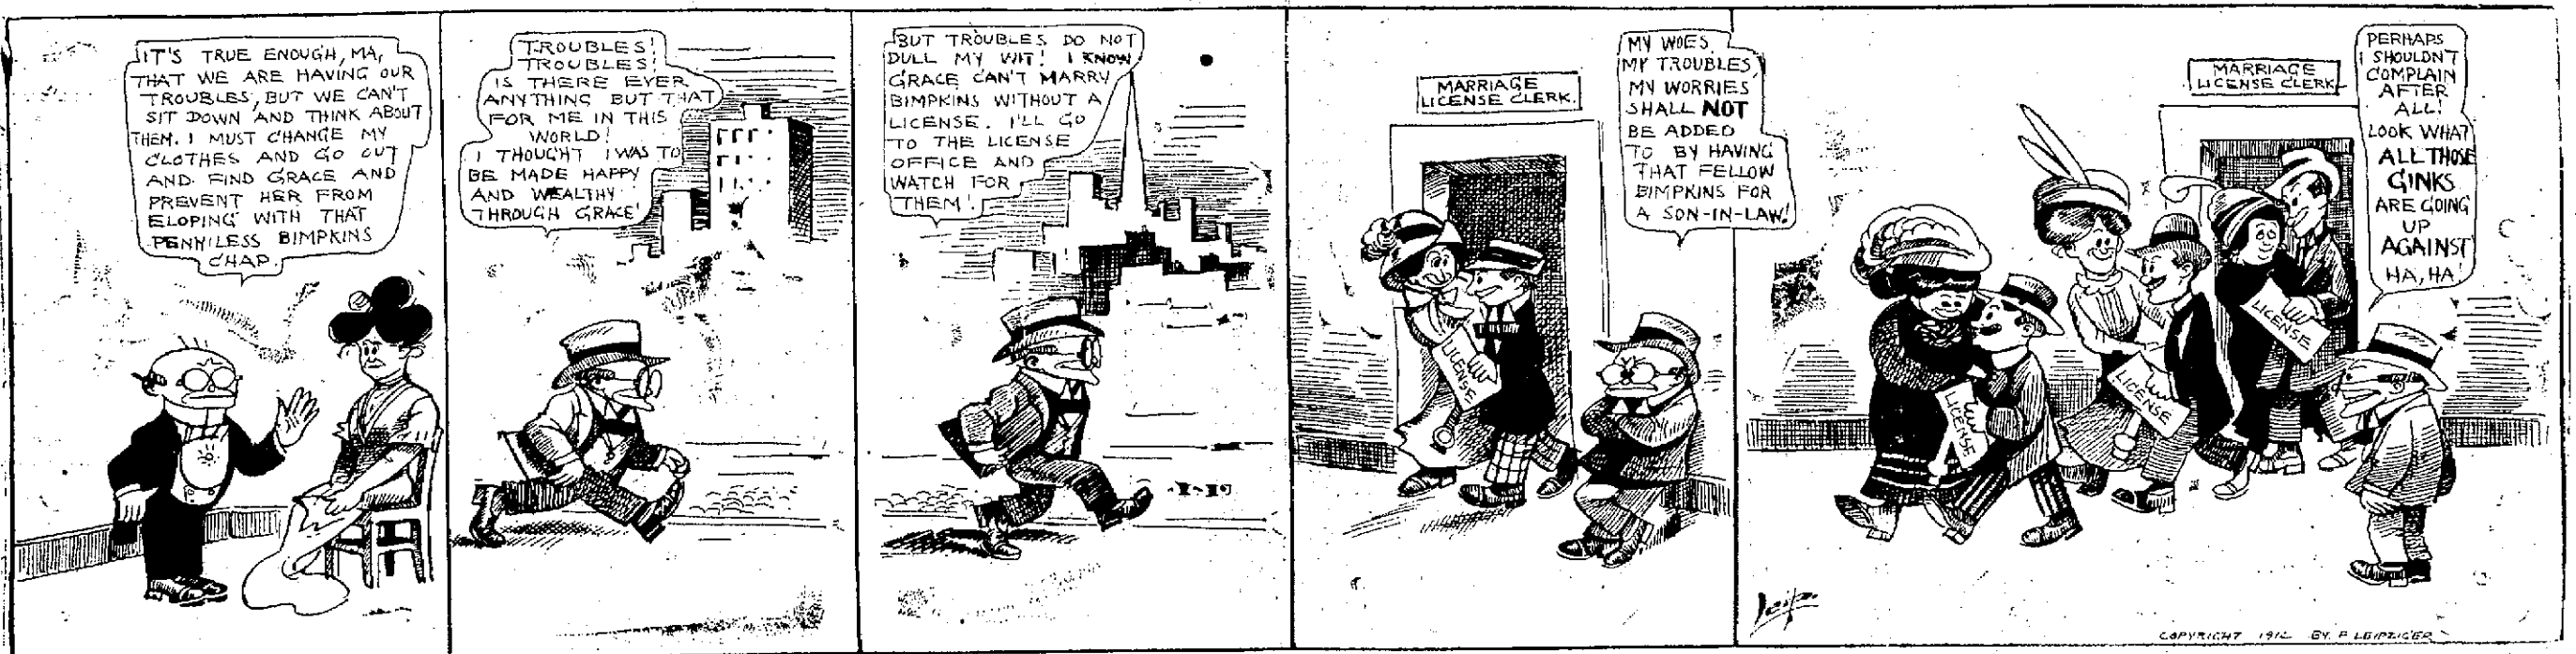

Those born today will have brilliant artistic or literary ability and will succeed if they can overcome laziness and indecision.

Mrs. J. N. Hill, Homer, Ga., has used Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for years, and says: “I cheerfully testify to the merits of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, having used it in my family for years, and always recommend it. ## The Chronicles of Addington Peace

By B. FLETCHER ROBINSON
Co-Author with A. Conan Doyle of 'The Hound of the Baskervilles'

MR. TAUBERY'S DIAMOND

"Hi, young fellow! Does Inspector Peace live here?"

He spoke roughly enough, and I returned his stare with equal irritation. When a man may not indulge in day dreams on his own doorstep the state of society wants mending. He was a big bully of a fellow, with a red face, a curled, white mustache, and a single eye-glass, through which he regarded me with an air of extreme ill-temper.

"The Inspector lodges on the third floor," I told him coldly. "Do you live here too?"

"I had a mind not to answer him, but, after all, it was not worth while making trouble over an impudent question."

"Yes," I said, "I rent the ground floor and the studio behind. My name is Phillips. I am an artist. For the past four years I have studied abroad. If you would like to see my ninth certificate I will go and fetch it for you."

To my surprise, he burst into a shout of laughter, swaying his body from side to side. It was quite a time before he recovered himself.

"Good, lad—good, lad," he chuckled. "Gad! but I deserved it! Allow me to introduce myself. My name is Guntun, sir—Colonel Theophilus Guntun—and I'm very pleased to meet you."

He held out his hand, which I shook, without any great degree of enthusiasm. "Is this Addington Peace at home, do you think?" he continued.

"I don't know," I told him. "I should walk upstairs and find out if I were you."

"There I recognize the practical head. You know him?"

"Yes."

"Then, we will go together. You can introduce me."

I was offended at the noise and bluster of the man; but he had grabbed my arm, and I didn't want a scene at my own door. I led him up the stairs, his voice growing silent as his lung capacity weakened. The inspector's voice cried an invitation to my knock, and I entered, with the colonel puffing at my heels like a locomotive on a stiff incline.

"Sorry to disturb you, Peace," I said; "but this is a gentleman by the name of Guntun, and he appears anxious to make your acquaintance."

The little man rose from his easy chair, and stood looking at the stranger with an expression of great good-humor. "For myself, I was about to withdraw when the colonel's hand dropped heavily upon my shoulder."

"Don't you go," he said. "A cosmopolitan, a detective and a man of the world, as I am, form a unique combination. And, by Gad! gentlemen, we shall want all our brains over this affair."

I glanced at Peace, who smiled and nodded. So I stayed.

The colonel kindly consented to take the most comfortable chair, sighed, stretched out his legs, lit a cheroot and then, without further introduction, plunged into his story.

"Perhaps you have heard of Julius Taubery? No? Well, it's a name as well known throughout India as the viceroys. He is the head of one of the richest firms in Calcutta. Went out there as a young man, worked well, married well, and ended well in all things, save his constitution, with which he played the very devil. In 1900 he was returned and took a fine London house in Portland place, together with an old hall down in Devonshire. A month ago the doctors ordered him out of England for life. Rough on him, wasn't it, seeing that he had spent two-thirds of his time out of it already? But the south of France is his only chance, they tell him; so, like a wise man, he is selling off his sticks, and settling down at Mentone, without squealing to show how much it hurts him."

"Julius, and his wife—she's one of the kindest-hearted women—have been giving some farewell parties to their old friends. They had a lunch today, one-thirty sharp, and a lot of people turned up. After the ladies had left us, the talk, as luck would have it, fell on precious stones; and Julius Taubery is a crank on them if there ever was one. His wife wears the finest jewels in London, and the old man is supposed to have many thousands of pounds' worth more locked away, which he won't trust even her with the handling."

"Gentlemen," says he, "I will show you something that may interest you. It is a new purchase of mine, and it happens to be a remarkable stone!"

"He pulled a green case from an inside pocket, slipped it open, and there the thing was as big as a walnut. The lights were on, it being dull weather, and the stone blinked and sparkled like the sun on dancing water."

"My word, Julius," I said. "But that's a risky bit of stuff to carry about with you."

"It's going to the bank this afternoon," he answered. "So if you want to examine the pretty pebble, gentlemen, this is your last chance."

"And with that he took it from its case, as proud as a young husband of his first baby, and sent it round the table."

"I was sitting on Julius' left. Between us was a fat old boy, who was a stranger to me. He took a long stare at the stone, whistling softly between his teeth, before he passed it on. It went from hand to hand, never out of sight, so far as I could notice, until it came to Sir Andrew Carillon, who fancied himself an expert on gems. They say that when Lady Carillon is in the stalls, the play is finished in the women sitting behind her, for they can't keep their eyes off her pearls. Sir Andrew pulled out a magnifying glass, and began examining the diamond."

"I congratulate you, Taubery," he said, after about a minute. "You have acquired a historical stone!"

"Old Julius leant back, with a smile half-way round his head, but he didn't say a word."

"This stone," said Sir Andrew, in the heavy, pompous way that he has, tapping it with his magnifying glass to attract attention, "this stone is the celebrated Hydrapore diamond, to which first historical reference is made in the year 1584. It was captured by the Rajah of Hydrapore from a ruling chief in the Deccan after a battle, in which four thousand men lost their lives. In 1680 it was stolen from the Rajah's palace by a Spaniard, who escaped to Bombay, where he was robbed and murdered. The stone disappeared for about sixty years."

"It subsequently came into the possession of one of the East India company's agents, who was stabbed to death in his bungalow near Calcutta about 1760. The diamond, which is held to have inspired the attack, was saved from the robbers by the appearance of his guests and servants. The widow brought it to Europe and sold it to the Duc d'Alenbert, who lost his diamond and incidentally his life in the French revolution. It turned up again at the court of Napoleon III, being then in the possession of Henri Marvill, the well-known financier. Until today I thought it was still in his family."

"It is one of the very few large diamonds that is absolutely without a flaw, and its value in the open market today would be approaching thirty thousand pounds. Any one who takes an interest in historical stones might be tempted to give even a higher price; for there has been enough blood spilt over it, gentlemen, to fill the bath of its fortunate possessor."

"He laid down the diamond on the table and looked at his host with a malicious grin. But all countenances are alike; they are as covetous of each other's pet treasures as so many cats."

"All the time that Sir Andrew had been speaking, the fat fellow next to me had been snorting and swelling until, upon my soul, I thought he was in for a stroke of apoplexy. I am the best-tempered of men, but I have my limits, and the old granpus was one of them. "Are you in pain, sir?" I asked him. "Yes, I am, sir," he said, in such a high, squeaky voice that all the table could hear him. "I object to listening to the definitions of so-called experts, who cannot tell a diamond from a glass marble. Experts? Humbug, that's what I call them!"

"Do you refer to me, Professor Endicott?" began Sir Andrew, leaning forward, with a very red face. "Most certainly, I do."

"Then I must ask you for an explanation or an immediate apology."

"A man who can make so ludicrous an error deserves neither the one nor the other," cried the professor, in great excitement. "That stone has been in the possession of the Princes of Pavaloff for three hundred years. Prince Peter, the present head of the family, kindly allowed me to examine it when I was in Moscow in 1894. I was not aware that he had sold it. I trust, Mr. Taubery, that you obtained it from a respectable source; if not, I should be no true friend did I hide from you my belief that it had been stolen."

"If a man had said such a decidedly insulting thing to me I should have knocked him down there and then. I would, 'pon my soul, without thinking more about it. But Julius lay back in his chair, smiling all over his face. I suppose those collectors get accustomed to each other's little ways; they're a queer lot, anyway."

"You can be quite easy on that point, Professor Endicott," he said. "Prince Peter was, unfortunately, involved in the late Dolorouski conspiracy, but had time to slip across the Russian frontier before the police could arrest him. I bought the diamond from his agent in Paris."

"You interest me deeply, Mr. Taubery," struck in Sir Andrew, speaking very softly, though we could all see he was in a devil of a rage. "Even I was not unaware of the existence of the Pavaloff diamond. If my memory does not fail me, it is slightly disfigured by a flaw on the eighth facet?"

"Certainly, Sir Andrew," said our host; "if you examine the stone you will see that such is the case."

"There is no such blemish on the diamond I have before me. Therefore I humbly suggest that you have been deceived by this Parisian agent as to its origin."

"Professor Endicott climbed to his feet with a grunt of dissatisfaction, and leant over the table, thrusting out his podgy fist to receive the jewel. He remained standing, with his body away forward, so that the electric lights above the silver center piece might shine the brighter upon what he held. Presently he dropped his hands to his sides and stood staring about him like a plowman lost in Piccadilly."

"This is not the stone I examined five minutes ago," he stuttered.

"Nonsense," said old Julius, with a shadow of fear in his eyes. "Nonsense, Endicott; look again."

"Can it be that two such famous experts have made a mistake?" sneered Sir Andrew. "Can it be that a humble amateur like myself is right and that they are wrong? As I told you, gentlemen, the Hydrapore diamond—"

"Hydrapore diamond be d—d!" squealed the fat man. "This thing is a fake, a clumsy imitation. Taubery, you have been robbed!"

"We were all on our feet in an instant amid a clamor of tongues. But there was one man amongst us that kept his head; one man who realized that his honor was in peril; that immediate action was necessary. His name—if I am not too egotistical—is Theophilus Guntun."

"Fortunately I have a voice of some power, and a manner that, when my feelings are strongly moved, is perhaps not unimpressive. I commanded and obtained silence. I begged them to resume their seats; they obeyed."

"Julius Taubery," I said, "has your diamond disappeared?"

"He answered that it had, looking at the imitation stone, which they had returned to him, in a silly, scared way."

"Julius Taubery," I continued, "we, your guests, lie under a stigma, an imputation. We cannot leave the house under such circumstances. Some one must have brought the imitation stone with him for a purpose that it is needless to define. The real jewel must be in his pocket at this moment. Let us, therefore, be searched."

"They all sat silent as mice under my eye, save the professor, who grunted as if in dissent."

"Do I understand that you object to my plan, sir?" I asked him. "Do you refuse to be searched? And if so, may I ask why?"

"He gave me an angry look, but he had not the courage to contest the point."

"Then, I may take it that we are all agreed. Taubery, you have a flbrary upon this floor. As I passed the door before lunch I noticed that there was an excellent fire there. Professor Endicott and myself will retire to that room. I will search the professor; the professor shall search me. After that the rest of the guests will come, one by one, into the room, where we will search them in turn. Let us have no delay. Professor Endicott, I am very much at your service."

"I went through that party, gentlemen, as our Transatlantic cousins would express it, with a fine-tooth comb. And I feel it my duty to say that not one of them raised the smallest objection to the severity of my methods. They were like lambs, gentlemen, they were, by thunder! But I obtained no result. The Taubery diamond had disappeared."

"Poor old Julius was quite broken down about it. He placed the whole matter in my hands. On my way to Scotland Yard I remembered what an old friend of mine had told me about you. 'If you are ever in a hole, Guntun,' he said, 'get Addington Peace—' he is the man. You were off duty. I inquired your address; I am here. And now, what are you going to do?"

"Can you remember who it was that introduced the subject of precious stones at your luncheon party?" asked Inspector Peace.

"On my life I don't know," said the colonel, polishing his eye-glass with a red silk pocket handkerchief. "It was one of the fellows at the other end of the table, but I can't say which of them."

"Yet it is presumable that the guest who came with an imitation diamond in his pocket is the man who started a discussion which resulted in Mr. Taubery producing his latest treasure."

"So it is, by Jove!" cried the colonel; "I never thought of it. Clever work, inspector, eh?"

"Exactly," said Peace, blandly. "And now, as regards the place in which the robbery was committed, I locked the door," answered the colonel, smacking his trousers' pocket. "Please let me have the key. Thank you. And now as to the windows. Were they closed and fastened?"

"I saw to it myself."

"After the search in the library, did any of the guests return to the dining room?"

"I am no fool, inspector. I left old Julius there to see to that. No one went back. When I had finished searching I joined Julius, and we locked up together. The butler had called in the policeman on the beat, and I left him sitting in the passage watching the door and drinking beer."

"I must go to Portland place. What is the number?"

"I will drive you there with all the pleasure in the world, inspector," said the colonel, cheerfully. "Come along."

I left them at the foot of the stairs, obtaining a whispered promise from the detective that he would give me a call that night if it was not too late when he returned.

I spent a disconsolate evening at the club. Never did I play a more degraded hand at bridge, though I should certainly have taken exception to the remarks of my partner under more ordinary circumstances. There is a point at which fair criticism ends and deliberate insult begins.

FIRM FOUNDATION

Nothing Can Undermine It in Janesville.

People are sometimes slow to recognize true merit, and they cannot be blamed, for so many have been humbugged in the past. The experience of hundreds of Janesville residents, expressed publicly through newspapers and other sources, places Doan's Kidney Pills on a firm foundation here.

Mrs. B. F. Jones, 415 Western Ave., Janesville, Wis., says: "My back was so painful that I had to go around all stooped over and sometimes there was weakness through my loins that made it impossible for me to stand. I did not sleep well and it seemed as if a weight were tied to my back. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended, I got a box at the People's Drug Co., and began their use. They cured me and at that time I was pleased to make the fact known by means of a public statement. I take pleasure in confirming all I have previously said regarding Doan's Kidney Pills and add that I value them as highly as ever. I know that this remedy can be relied upon to correct symptoms of kidney trouble."

BY WALT MASON

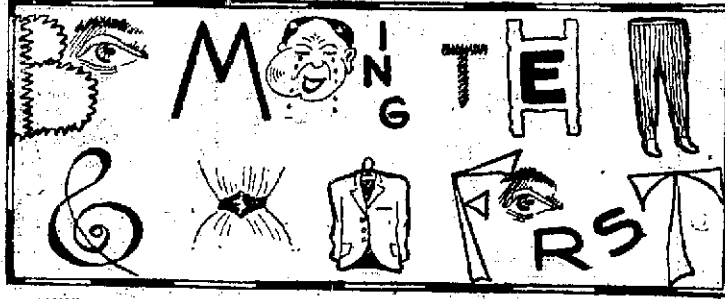

Now we hear the autumn calling and her fall is wreathed in smiles; and the willing leaves are falling in the quiet forest aisles. Put away your trusty swatter 'mong the trophies in your den, let the carnival of slaughter cease 'till summer comes again! For the first is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock, and the drowsy rural bumpkin leaves his couch at three o'clock that he may afford go shucking ere the sun has come across; and the old gray mare is bucking for her hair is full of frost. Put away the wire screen swatter, let surviving flies remain; for a fellow hadn't ought to have destruction on the brain. Now the pastures are too seedy to support the cows, alas, and the cattle, lank and weedy, bawl for predigested grass, and the hogs are chewing nubbins which in nourishment are rich, and the mule, with futile rubbin's, would alleviate the itch. Oh, on all the land and waters coldly gleams the autumn sun. Let us put away our swatters, for the summer's work is done. Let us put away our swatters 'till the flies return next spring, when we'll sock their sons and daughters as we can, and sing!

and with no great surprises. You will have a little difficulty with a person of the opposite sex, but careful speech and action will lessen it. Those born today will have romantic dispositions and will often need advice from those of staid temperament. Their success in life will largely depend on their choice of associates.

Good One Way.

For many years a man named Dutton was a popular conductor between Duluth and Two Harbors. A woman from Duluth purchased a ticket, a return ticket to Two Harbors, and then concluded to return by boat. Some months later she wished again to visit Two Harbors and presented the remaining half of her former ticket. Mr. Dutton looked at it a full minute, then said: "I think this ticket is good for one transportation, madam, but you will have to ride backward."

Woman's Age.

A few years ago after a woman had passed thirty-five she was relegated to the fireside and she looked and felt old. She lived in her memory, and all the money that was spent for little frills and follies was given to her daughter; for mother, all was over. Suddenly woman awakened to the fact that after thirty-five she is at her best, and that her beauty need not fade unless she wishes it.—Home Life.
